Q. I have held a number of U.S. Savings Bonds, Series E, past their maturity date. Do they continue to earn interest after the maturity date? If so, where can I get a chart showing the payoff after the maturity date? W.B., Long Beach.

A. Yes, they do continue to earn interest. For example, a $25 Savings Bond purchased in October of 1942 for $18.75 would be worth $43.74 today according to Richard Washburne, promotion director for the Savings Bond Division of the U.S. Department of the Treasury in Los Angeles. For redemption information on just a few bonds, you can call the Federal Reserve Bank, 409 W. Olympic Blvd., Los Angeles, at 627-7641. Redemption charts for six month periods can be ordered for 20 cents from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402. Ask for the Table of Redemption Values for U.S. Savings Bonds, Series E.

Q. I have heard that in Redding, there is a school where smokejumping is taught. I made parachute jumps in the service and am interested in this type of employment. What organization can I write for further information? J.D., Long Beach.

A. Contact the U.S. Forest Service, Northern California Service Center, Airport Road, Redding, Calif. 96001. The service employs smokejumpers (fire fighters who parachute to forest fires inaccessible to ground crews) on a seasonal basis from May 15 to Sept. 30. Smokejumpers are given a three-week training course with pay in Redding, and then assigned to manual labor projects in any part of the region while on call for fires. To qualify as a smokejumper, an applicant must be between 18 and 26 years of age, weigh between 130 and 180 pounds, be no taller than 6 foot 3 inches, and be in good health. He should have at least a high school education or its equivalent in experience and have at least one season's experience in forest or brush fire control. Applications for the smokejumper positions are accepted by the service between Jan. 1 and April 15. Starting salary is approximately $480 a month.

Hard Line

Q. Is the hard sauce served with the hot Christmas plum pudding a liquid or solid sauce? Is it called hard sauce because of the liquor used in it or because of its consistency? Also, where can I find recipes for hard sauce? D.R., Long Beach.

A. Mildred Flanary, I.P.T. food editor, told ACTION LINE that a hard sauce is so called because it is a solid sauce about the consistency of divinity fudge. One recipe in Helen Brown's "Holiday Cook Book" provides the following instructions for hard sauce: Cream  $\frac{1}{2}$  pound butter until fluffy, beat in  $\frac{1}{4}$  cup brown sugar and three tablespoons brandy or rum, beat well, and add  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup chopped toasted almonds. Recipes for Orange Cointreau Hard Sauce and Brandy Cream Sauce as well as plum pudding are included in Charlotte Turgeon's "Cooking for Many." Both books are available at the Long Beach Library, Pacific Avenue and Ocean Boulevard. Plum pudding originally started out as a porridge called "frumenty." There is an old superstition that plum pudding must always be made on the fourth Sunday in Advent, "Stir-Up Sunday," and that each member have a go at stirring it.

Mask of Tragedy

Q. What ever happened to Diana Barrymore? Where can I get her autobiography, "Too Much, Too Soon"? N.N., Long Beach.

A. Actress Diana Barrymore died in her New York apartment in January, 1960. She was 38 years old. She was born in New York, the daughter of actor John Barrymore and writer Blanche Oelrichs. In 1938-39, she was New York's "personality debutante" and was photographed in all the fashionable night spots. Encouraged by her father, she started a theatrical career in summer stock and then moved to Hollywood. Between 1941 and 1945, she appeared in several plays and films: "Eagle Squadron," "Between Us Girls," and "Ladies Courageous." She didn't do well in her theatrical career, had worse luck with her three marriages and became an alcoholic. Her autobiography, written with Gerold Frank, is now out of print, but you can borrow a copy from the Los Angeles City Library, 630 W. Fifth St., Los Angeles. Cherokee Book Shop, 6607 Hollywood Blvd., Hollywood, has a used copy of the book for sale for $3.86 including tax and postage.

REACTION

I hate to disagree with Marge Fahy, librarian of the Southern California Genealogical Society, quoted in a recent ACTION LINE answer, but a second cousin and a cousin twice removed are not the same. Children of your first cousin and your children are second cousins, whereas the children of your first cousin are your first cousins, once removed, and grandchildren of your first cousin are your first cousins, twice removed. State Teachers Ask 'Way Out of This Moral Decadence'

By RALPH HINMAN JR.
Education Editor

A sweeping plan "to lead California out of the moral decay in which it is descending" by requiring "traditional spiritual and moral values" be taught in all public schools won preliminary approval in Los Angeles, Friday.

Accepted unanimously by the state Board of Education, which ordered immediate detailed study how the plan could be implemented, was an 81-page "Guideline for Moral Instruction in California's Schools" that calls for:

—Instruction in grades kindergarten-through-12th in America's religious heritage, religious views of the Founding Fathers and bases of morality as understood by the men of 1776 as they apply to civics and history;

—Additional teaching materials to be developed by the state Department of Education;

—In-service training in the guidelines to be required for all political science, social science or history teachers "so they may immediately introduce moral instruction in their classrooms";

—Moral instruction to be part of future teachers' academic preparation;

—A state board resolution asking the Legislature's assistance in promoting traditionalism and in hindering "the teaching of humanism as a religion."

Recent board appointee Gene Ragle, an Auburn radio station manager, moved that the guidelines immediately be adopted as policy. Dr. John Ford, a Negro physician from San Diego, seconded the motion, then amended it to include a statement that:

"Many of us feel that teaching (human) evolution as a fact rather than as a theory takes away belief in God. It should be taught as a theory along with the Biblical view . . . so students can make up their minds which is right."

Both Long Beach businessman W. Howard Day, board president, and Dr. Max Rafferty, state superintendent of schools, told the men that "Much study and many public hearings must be held" before it could be adopted. Board member Rev. Dorn Mountaw then was named to head a study committee.

RAFFERTY added that an earlier study committee had formulated a plan calling for such dual teaching but it was shelved two years ago. "I still have it on file," he said, "and it could be brought out anytime this board so desires."

Griffin Led Opposition to Jurist

DETROIT (UPI) — Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., disclosed Friday night his life has been threatened because of his involvement in the controversy over Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas.

Griffin, obviously shaken, arrived at a news conference prior to a testimonial dinner accompanied by two plainclothes Detroit police.

After answering several questions about Fortas' relations with convicted securities manipulator Louis F. Wolfson, Griffin suddenly revealed the threat.

"MY OFFICE in Detroit tells me my life has been threatened," he said. "I hesitate to make that statement, but I make it so it might be known I am not the only one in possession of that information."

He did not elaborate if "that information" referred to the threat on his life or to further information about Fortas. The statement came immediately, however, after Griffin had said, "I said that more incriminating information might come out against Fortas."

Griffin, who led the successful fight last year to block President Johnson's nomination of Fortas to be Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, was reluctant to talk about the threat or why he attached particular significance to it.

"THE THREAT did relate to my position on the Fortas matter," Griffin said, refusing any other comment than that it had come by telephone on Wednesday.

He said the FBI had been notified and was investigating the incident.

Griffin said again he supported the suggestion of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., that Fortas come forward to explain why he accepted $20,000 from the Wolfson Family Foundation and waited 11 months to return it.

"If he (Fortas) doesn't come forward with an adequate explanation and clean up the doubts that surround him, he ought to resign," Griffin said. "If he doesn't, and if the court doesn't act, then Congress may have to go ahead with its constitutional responsibilities."

Bonn Won't Revalue Mark

New York Times Service

FRANKFURT, West Germany — Speculation on an increase in the rate of the West German mark continued with unparalleled intensity Friday night despite repeated official statements that the Bonn government would decide to maintain the present parity.

The cabinet decision against revaluation came after a frenzied day in which billions of dollars worth of funds poured into German financial centers.

The mark again shot through its upper limits against the dollar, the pound and the French franc.

SO GREAT was the demand that some of the smaller German banks ran out of marks to sell. A shortage of marks in Denmark resulted in suspension of all transactions in and quotations for foreign currency there.

The German government is planning certain — though as yet undisclosed — "flanking" measures to support Friday's decision.

but many experts were of the opinion Friday night that the revaluation issue was not yet settled.

A German banker, asked whether there would be more speculation next week, replied, "How can there be. There are no more dollars left. They are all in the Bundesbank."

BUT MEN like David Montagu, a director of Samuel Montagu and Company, the London merchant banking house, were predicting immense speculation.

Much depends on the supporting measures. German financial experts were predicting Friday night that taxes would be raised on German exports and that levies might be imposed on new foreign deposits in Germany.

Persistent huge trading surpluses are basically responsible for the revaluation pressures. It was after a similar crisis in November that German authorities imposed the initial export tax together with a reduced import levy, but even these measures have failed to trim the surpluses.

Fund Issue Fight Hurts 5 Students

Twenty-five students

scuffled, breaking tables, chairs and windows, at a

Mt. San Antonio College

meeting Friday about allocating funds to Negro and

Mexican-American student groups. The college is in Walnut, 35 miles east of Los Angeles.

Five were injured, one stabbed in the back with a fork.

Thirty-five deputy sheriffs were alerted, but school officials said the disturbance ended without their help.

ABOUT 1,000 students and teachers at the two-year school were discussing proposed allocation of student body funds to the

Black Students Union and

United Mexican American

Students.

Bill Anderson, student body president, told newsmen the main issue was

$16,000 requested by the two organizations.

He said many students felt the BSU and UMAS

requests could be granted

only at the expense of other campus groups,

mainly the athletic department.

Members of the BSU had said the athletic department had told students to oppose the requests and demanded all coaches be fired.

AS STUDENTS were taking one-minute turns at the podium giving their views, witnesses said, one student hit another and the fights started.

The students at the

continued to fight. One group broke tables, chairs and windows in a nearby cafeteria.

Reds Massing New Forces; 61 Killed

Combined News Services

SAIGON — Americans killed 61 Reds in clashes northwest of Saigon, military spokesmen said today. Intelligence reports said the Communists were massing forces for new attacks in the central highlands. In an eight-hour battle Friday near the Michelin Ruhher plantation, 40 miles northwest of Saigon, about 600 U.S. 25th Infantry Division troops, supported by tanks, took on an estimated 200 North Vietnamese regulars. At least 36 North Vietnamese were killed before the U.S. troops pulled back after sundown to let jet fighter-bombers blast the Communist positions. U.S. losses were placed at two killed and eight wounded. Another brigade of the "Tropic Lightning" division clashed with some 50 Communist troops 23 miles north of the capital and reported killing 15 with the aid of helicopter gunships and artillery strikes. No American casualties were reported.

2,000 GIs Get Extended Duty in Korea

SEOUL — About 2,000 soldiers scheduled to return to the United States in May, some for discharge, have had their tours in Korea extended for 31 days, the U.S. Army announced Friday. The announcement said the extension is aimed at maintaining the 8th Army "at a constantly high level." It did not say how long the policy would be in effect. There was speculation the new extension was related to the downing of the Navy spy plane off the Korean coast April 15.

Rev. Paisley Calls Off Belfast March

BELFAST — Rev. Ian Paisley, militant Protestant leader, Friday bowed to police warnings of potential violence and called off an anti-Roman Catholic march scheduled in Belfast Friday night. A police spokesman said "we wanted, if at all possible, the parade canceled to save the situation and try to retain normality." But Paisley made no move to cancel a rally Friday night and March today in Bannside, the Belfast Protestant district that is the constituency of former Premier Terence O'Neill. The area is a focal point in Northern Ireland's turmoil over Catholic-led minority efforts to secure improved housing and local voting conditions.

U.S. Withholds South Vietnam Aid

SAIGON — The United States has withheld $40 million in aid funds from South Vietnam because of a disagreement with the Saigon government over how to stop inflation here, U.S. officials said Friday. The center of the controversy revolves around tax reforms which the U.S. feels should be instituted to combat inflation. The government of President Nguyen Van Thieu has balked at the idea.

Russia Resumes Egypt Arms Shipments

LONDON — The Soviet Union has resumed sizable arms shipments to Egypt, including latest supersonic jets, diplomatic sources said Friday. The shipments resumed after an interval of many months, coinciding with the Big Four Middle East peace talks which Moscow had urged strongly, the sources indicated. A ranking communist diplomat said Friday in response to reports of new arms shipments: "After all, the U.S. is supplying Phantom jets to Israel which could even carry Israeli atom weapons and Britain, in turn, is supplying Jordan with arms." The new Russian supplies are understood to include the Soviet supersonic SU-7 all-weather fighter bomber.

Czechs Celebrate Defeat of Nazi Germany

PRAGUE — Chants of "long live the Red Army" Friday punctuated an anniversary day speech delivered by the Soviet ambassador from the same podium where Czechoslovakia's reform slogan "Socialism with a Human Face" was first heard last year. Ambassador Stephan V. Chervonenko spoke in about 8,000 pro-Soviet Communists at a rally in the Congress Hall of Prague's Puck Park on the 24th anniversary of the defeat of the Nazi army in Czechoslovakia.

Reds Massing New Forces; 61 Killed

Combined News Services

SAIGON — Americans killed 61 Reds in clashes northwest of Saigon, military spokesmen said today. Intelligence reports said the Communists were massing forces for new attacks in the central highlands. In an eight-hour battle Friday near the Michelin Rubber plantation, 40 miles northwest of Saigon, about 600 U.S. 25th Infantry Division troops, supported by tanks, took on an estimated 200 North Vietnamese regulars. At least 36 North Vietnamese were killed before the U.S. troops pulled back after sundown to let jet fighter-bombers blast the Communist positions. U.S. losses were placed at two killed and eight wounded. Another brigade of the "Tropic Lightning" division clashed with some 50 Communist troops 23 miles north of the capital and reported killing 15 with the aid of helicopter gunships and artillery strikes. No American casualties were reported.

2,000 GIs Get Extended Duty in Korea

SEOUL — About 2,000 soldiers scheduled to return to the United States in May, some for discharge, have had their tour in Korea extended for 31 days, the U.S. Army announced Friday. The announcement said the extension is aimed at maintaining the 8th Army "at a constantly high level." It did not say how long the policy would be in effect. There was speculation the new extension was related to the downing of the Navy spy plane off the Korean coast April 15.

Rev. Paisley Calls Off Belfast March

BELFAST — Rev. Ian Paisley, militant Protestant leader, Friday bowed to police warnings of potential violence and called off an anti-Roman Catholic march scheduled in Belfast Friday night. A police spokesman said "we wanted, if at all possible, the parade canceled to save the situation and try to retain normality." But Paisley made no move to cancel a rally Friday night and March today in Bannside, the Belfast-Protestant district that is the constituency of former Premier Terence O'Neill. The area is a focal point in Northern Ireland's turmoil over Catholic-led minority efforts to secure improved housing and local voting conditions.

U.S. Withholds South Vietnam Aid

SAIGON — The United States has withheld $40 million in aid funds from South Vietnam because of a disagreement with the Saigon government over how to stop inflation here, U.S. officials said Friday. The center of the controversy revolves around tax reforms which the U.S. feels should be instituted to combat inflation. The government of President Nguyen Van Thieu has balked at the idea.

Russia Resumes Egypt Arms Shipments

LONDON — The Soviet Union has resumed sizeable arms shipments to Egypt, including latest supersonic jets, diplomatic sources said Friday. The shipments resumed after an interval of many months, coinciding with the Big Four Middle East peace talks which Moscow had urged strongly, the sources indicated. A ranking communist diplomat said Friday in response to reports of new arms shipments: "After all, the U.S. is supplying Phantom jets to Israel which could even carry Israeli atom weapons and Britain, in turn, is supplying Jordan with arms." The new Russian supplies are understood to include the Soviet supersonic SU-7 all-weather fighter bomber.

Czechs Celebrate Defeat of Nazi Germany

PRAGUE — Chants of "long live the Red Army" Friday punctuated an anniversary day speech delivered by the Soviet ambassador from the same podium where Czechoslovakia's reform slogan "Socialism with a Human Face" was first heard last year. Ambassador Stephan V. Chervonenko spoke in about 8,000 pro-Soviet Communists at a rally in the Congress Hall of Prague's Fuick Park on the 24th anniversary of the defeat of the Nazi army in Czechoslovakia.

Paul Haney, once the "voice" of the U.S. manned space flight program, will cover the July 20 Apollo moon flight for a British television network, it was announced Friday. Independent Television News said Haney would provide commentary on the flight from its London studios. It quoted him as saying he was being paid "a handsome sum." Haney worked on more than 80 space shots in 10 years with the U.S. space program. He was relieved as public affairs director for the Houston Space Center last month.

BEAUTIFUL RIDE

Research pilot John A. Manke made the first supersonic flight in a wingless HL-10 lifting body Friday, reaching a top speed of 724 miles an hour or 1.1 times the speed of sound. Manke's one-word description of the seven-minute flight was "beautiful," uttered as he stepped from the experimental craft under study for possible use as a shuttle spacecraft capable of maneuvering to ground landings. This was the 17th successful flight for the HL-10 which was taken aloft attached to the belly of a B-52 jet.

103 TODAY

Richard H. Jackson, who is celebrating his 103rd birthday anniversary today as the nation's oldest admiral, remembers when his goals were the "three G's." "Golf in the morning, gardening in the afternoon and," his blue eyes twinkling, "galavanting in the evening."

Those were his aims, he said, when he retired from the Navy in 1930 after serving as commander of the U.S. battleship fleet. The oldest living graduate of the Naval Academy said he has lived to 103 by "taking things in stride," including the big San Diego-Coronado Bay Bridge nearing completion within sight of his home in this peninsula community that is a haven for beached sailors.

Asked if he planned to take a trip over the bridge when it's done, the admiral said: "I'll get myself a dinghy and row across." Jackson said he is "used to being old." The 5-foot-5 admiral, an 1887 graduate of Annapolis, has been slowing down but is still remarkably spry, says his housekeeper for 27 years, Mrs. Charles Bucey.

The admiral, whose wife died in 1924, lives in a two-story stucco house with a view of the bay.

Mystery—How Did Injured Tot Get in Channel?

A 2-year-old boy was near death Friday night after a construction worker found him lying in three inches of water in a Downey flood control channel.

Sheriff's deputies are trying to learn how the tot, Jeffery Allan Lenards of Cudahy, got from his bedroom to the riverbed more than two miles away.

He was found in the Rio Hondo channel beneath the Suva Street overcrossing about 9 a.m., two hours after his mother reported him missing from his bed.

Mrs. John Lenards, 51 1/2 Santa Ana St., said she put the youngster to bed Thursday night about 9:30.

Deputies said the boy may have fallen 25 feet from the bridge to the water.

He was treated for a skull fracture, broken thigh and other injuries at Downey Community Hospital, then transferred to County General Hospital in Los Angeles, where he's listed in "very critical" condition.

Olin lives in Garden Grove.

Flooding Damages Revised

Orange County Assessor Andrew J. Hinshaw raised his estimate of flood damages Friday and said the record storms of January and February might have dealt a $15-million loss.

It was $8 million more than initial estimates made in March when Hinshaw announced that his office would compile a list of damages and reduce assessments to allow tax breaks.

He said that property owners must submit their estimates by May 15. His staff will then correlate them with their own estimates.

Property owners whose places were damaged at least $1,000 worth can file for tax considerations, Hinshaw said.

The Legislature authorized the tax refunds for the second installment of the current year's taxes.

Hinshaw's estimates are on losses to market value of property. They would be translated to assessed value, which is one fourth of the estimated market value.

Taxes are levied against the assessments, not against market value. Roughly, the rate is $10 tax per $100 assessed valuation, so that if a $20,000 house was damaged $2,000 worth, its owner would receive a tax rebate of $50.

The $15 million total loss estimate includes $7.5 million to flood control and drainage works, $2 million to county roads, almost $485,000 damage to county parks, and smaller amounts to properties owned by other governmental agencies.

Hinshaw said the biggest single losses were to properties in Silverado and Modjeska canyons; he estimated that they topped $1.1 million, roughly divided equally between the two.

From the standpoint of volume of rainfall, it was the heaviest storm since 1884. It surpassed by $1 million the losses of the 1938 flood. That disaster cost 45 lives; five were lost this year, all of them when a mudslide buried Silverado Canyon fire station.

CRUCHLEY CAMPAIGN
E. F. (Ted) Cruchley, 8th District council candidate, "appears to be running ahead of the field" according to spot checks made in the district within the past few days, his campaign cochairman reported Friday.

Norman Barker, cochairman with Ida Frances Lowry, said he is not surprised at the "steadily gathering momentum" for his candidate.

"Ted is well known and well liked in this area where he has lived for the past 30 years. He is a successful businessman, has a fine family and has taken a very active part in civic and community affairs ever since I have known him."

"In my opinion he is particularly well qualified to serve us on the city council and I know that he has both the necessary time and the desire to be of service to the community which, he says, has been good to him."

Senate Group is Told School Meals are Fraud

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A U.S. Senate committee exploring the scope of hunger in the United States was told Friday the school lunch program is a fraud which basically serves as a subsidy to the rich and the well fed.

This was the theme of testimony before the Senate's Select Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs, as witness after witness attacked what they called bureaucratic bungling.

Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., a committee member, noted that applicants for food stamps in Los Angeles County would probably have trouble meeting requirements.

Referring to the application he said: "Many people who are highly educated could not do it."

Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., committee chairman, said between 10 and 12 million people in the country are underfed and "there is no state in the nation which does not have some pockets of hunger."

Robert L. Gnaidza, deputy director of the California Rural Legal Assistance, called for complete federal funding and a general overhaul of the food stamp and school lunch programs.

Gnaidza, who called the free lunch program a "fraud," said in one San Luis Obispo County school district with 1,500 students only 14 are getting free lunches.

JESS Unruh, Assembly Democratic leader, told the committee that California has hungry people but state and federal officials don't care.

"The Black Panthers supply more free breakfasts than the federal government," he said.

Joseph Bernhard, a consultant to the Farm Workers Action Committee of Fresno County, told the committee, "practically everything you've done so far has been only for the sake of appearances."

"The barrios and pueblos of San Joaquin County are already beginning to move. I hear it every day. 'We built this valley and we can tear it down.' The San Francisco hearings are among a series the committee is conducting around the country on the hunger problem."

DR. BRUCE Jessup, who practices in a Negro ghetto area of east Palo Alto said children in the local schools are suffering from all the chronic health problems attributed to malnutrition.

Unruh and Chief Deputy Atty. Gen. Charles O'Brien, as well as others heatedly attacked the U.S. Agriculture Department's refusal to comply with a federal court order that it distribute food commodities in each of California's counties.

"Now, here comes the federal government thumbing its nose at a court order," said O'Brien.

"If college students ignored such an order they'd be in jail by now."

O'BRIEN referred to the order of a three-judge court in San Francisco, acting on a suit by migrant farm workers in San Benito County, that the government immediately distribute surplus food commodities in all counties because there was an urgent need.

The order was issued in late December and the Agriculture Department has not altered its program. The department made three unsuccessful attempts to have the court order set aside.

OUTNUMBER RESIDENTS

Vacationing Students Arriving at Zap, N.D.

ZAP, N.D. (UPI) — College students from across the nation — some as far south as Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., and as far west as UCLA — are pouring into this pint-sized suburb of Bismarck for what may be a trend-setter for the spring vacation crowd.

It's called a "Zap Out," and some 3,000 college students, enough to outnumber the Zap populace 10 times, have already arrived for spring vacation at this prairie town 86 miles northwest of Bismarck.

Mayor-Postmaster Norman Fuchs said a delegation from Ft. Lauderdale was the first to arrive. The mayor reported that three Floridians made the beachhead and posted signs in the Zap tavern which read "Florida was here first."

A pair of cars bearing "Zap or bust" signs and Pennsylvania license plates passed into North Dakota earlier in the afternoon. Four students from UCLA arrived after the Florida contingent.

Zap residents met the students with a mixture of outright hostility, friendliness and curiosity.

One resident posted a "student keep out" sign across his driveway, while other locals sat in cars and on the back of pickup trucks watching the biggest happening to hit this town since the nearby Missouri River last overflowed.

At Lucky's Bar, 10,000 cans of beer were on hand to serve the influx of customers in the tavern that has a five-stool bar and six booths.

The "Zip to Zap" movement began with an article in the North Dakota State university newspaper, describing Zap as the "Fort Lauderdale of the north." It urged students to zip to Zap over the weekend of May 10 for a Mother's Day "Zap Out."

Mrs. Lilly Flemmer, an employee at Zap's only coffee shop, said Friday afternoon, above the roar of student customers, that they were all very polite but keeping her busy.

The mayor's wife said she thought the visitors would be sleeping in the park because there are no facilities for public lodging.

The mayor said the Cowbells, a ladies organization, plans to make and sell at least 2,000 fleischkuelkes, a deep-fried German pastry filled with ground beef. The Cowbells plan to sell their pastry at 40 cents each and will put the proceeds toward 4-H projects.

DR. BUELL GALLAGHER

CCNY President Forced to Resign

By WALT MURRAY
Staff Writer

Political turmoil on college campuses is nothing new to Dr. Buell C. Gallagher, who resigned as president of City College of New York Friday under crossfire from student militants and city politicians.

Dr. Gallagher left his post as first chancellor of the California State Colleges in 1962 after vigorous attacks by right-wing groups.

The 65-year-old educator, who blamed "politically motivated outside forces" for undermining his negotiations with student activists at CCNY, said if he stayed in office he could no longer operate as "a man of peace, a reconciler, a man of compassion."

GALLAGHER, whose personal style resembled the peace-making efforts of former UC President Clark Kerr, said he resigned his California post in 1962 over personal and financial matters — but Gov. Edmund G. Brown, and state college faculty leaders charged right-wing political pressure led to his demise.

Gallagher became a target for the far right during his seven-month tenure at the California State Colleges because of his outspoken views on academic freedom.

But he was just as firm in attacking "Communist subversion."

"We can avoid conflict without paying the price of conformity if we are ready to entertain the possibility of controversy," he told a United Nations Association meeting in Long Beach on Jan. 20, 1962.

"In an open or free society, dissent and disloyalty are clearly distinguished . . . if we are to keep our own society free with excellence."

we must welcome dissent and at the same time we must defeat disloyalty," he said.

Gallagher left the door open to Communist guest speakers who wanted to appear on state college campuses, an extremely unpopular position in 1962.

HE ALSO opposed proposals of student loyalty oaths.

Gov. Edmund Brown charged after Gallagher's resignation — a month after the Long Beach speech — that "anonymous extremists" attacks distracted him from his main job of running the state college system.

At CCNY, political pressure came from city politicians and left-wing militants. Criticism was heaviest when he closed the campus after repeated violence instead of calling in police.

He seemed to face the same problem that he posed as a lasting issue to his Long Beach audience in 1962: "How can differing opinion and clashing desires be contained in peace without destroying freedom?"

to cause any damage to it.

When the students refused to leave, the court called in 120 state troopers, most of them from New Hampshire, but with a detachment from Vermont under a mutual aid plan.

Another tumultuous week on the nation's campuses was climaxed Friday by the resignation of Dr. Buell G. Gallagher as president of City College of New York and by riot police firing tear gas rockets into a Howard University dormitory.

The week also was marked by a major fire and a bloody clash between black and white students at CCNY.

There was trouble at a host of schools, including Southern University in New Orleans, the Madison campus of the University of Wisconsin, Purdue University, Indiana University, Dartmouth College, Alabama State College students were arrested at the state capitol in Montgomery.

Yale University President Kingman Brewster Jr. said in Chicago Friday campus violence will get worse unless some intense effort is made by the government to end the war in Vietnam, remove inequities of the draft and improve race relations.

THE UNDERLYING cause of student unrest, Brewster said, is a malaise among the young about the quality of society and the traditional definitions of success.

"The crisis of purpose is very real," he said.

Jacques Barzun of Columbia University told a House education subcommittee American universities will not recover for decades from the damage they have suffered as teaching institutions at the hands of student militants.

Colleges will have to take "strong means," he said, to overthrow what he called student despotism if they are to recover at all.

Seymour Martin Lipset of Harvard told the subcommittee in Washington that the campus trouble was a political phenomenon, not an educational one. He said it is part of a worldwide "crisis of authority" brought on by such things as increasing awareness of social conditions in the world.

In resigning effective Monday morning, Gallagher blamed "politically motivated outside forces" for undermining his efforts to stop a student rebellion.

"When the forces of angry rebellion and stern repression clash," he said, "the irrepressible conflict is joined. A man of peace, a reconciler, a man of compassion, must stand aside for a time and await the moment when sanity returns and brotherhood based on justice becomes a possibility."

S. Vietnam Ready to Begin Talks

By TERENCE SMITH
N.Y. Times Service

SAIGON, Saturday — The South Vietnamese government announced today that it was ready to begin discussions immediately on aspects of at least three of the 10 points included in the peace proposal made Thursday by the National Liberation Front.

In an unusually conciliatory statement issued by the foreign ministry in reply to the negotiating program proposed by the Viet Cong in Paris, the government said it was ready to begin talks, either in private or in the plenary sessions in Paris, on the following points:

The sources said the steps do not mean that a partial withdrawal of U.S. troops is certain. But they said the moves indicate that the U.S. Command is seriously preparing for that possibility.

OUTNUMBER RESIDENTS

Vacationing Students Arriving at Zap, N.D.

ZAP, N.D. (UPI) — College students from across the nation — some as far south as Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., and as far west as UCLA — are pouring into this pint-sized suburb of Bismarck for what may be a trend-setter for the spring vacation crowd.

It's called a "Zap Out," and some 3,000 college students, enough to outnumber the Zap populace 10 times have already arrived for spring vacation at this prairie town 86 miles northwest of Bismarck.

Mayor-Postmaster Norman Fuchs said a delegation from Ft. Lauderdale was the first to arrive. The mayor reported that three Floridians made the beachhead and posted signs in the Zap tavern which read "Florida was here first."

A pair of cars bearing "Zap or bust" signs and Pennsylvania license plates passed into North Dakota earlier in the afternoon. Four students from UCLA arrived after the Florida contingent.

Zap residents met the students with a mixture of outright hostility, friendliness and curiosity.

One resident posted a "student keep out" sign across his driveway, while other locals sat in cars and on the back of pickup trucks watching the biggest happening to hit this town since the nearby Missouri River last overflowed.

At Lucky's Bar, 10,000 cans of beer were on hand to serve the influx of customers in the tavern that has a five-stool bar and six booths.

The "Zip to Zap" movement began with an article in the North Dakota State University newspaper, describing Zap as the "Fort Lauderdale of the north." It urged students to zip to Zap over the weekend of May 10 for a Mother's Day "Zap Out."

Mrs. Lilly Fleanner, an employee at Zap's only coffee shop, said Friday afternoon, above the roar of student customers, that they were all very polite but keeping her busy.

The mayor's wife said she thought the visitors would be sleeping in the park because there are no facilities for public lodging.

The mayor said the Cowbells, a ladies organization, plans to make and sell at least 2,000 fleischkuelkes, a deep-fried German pastry filled with ground beef. The Cowbells plan to sell their pastry at 40 cents each and will put the proceeds toward 4-H projects.

Was Foundation's Only Paid Director

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Tax records for 1967 showed Friday that Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas was the only paid director of the Albert Parvin Foundation of Los Angeles.

UPI went to the tax records after it was reported Friday that Albert Parvin had been named a co-conspirator but not a defendant in the stock manipulation case which sent Louis E. Wolson to jail.

Douglas gets $12,000 from the foundation for serving as president and a director, and his relationship with it has been criticized by some members of congress, particularly Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., because of its financial holdings in Nevada gambling casinos.

The 1967 tax returns also showed that the Parvin Foundation added $101,340 to its tax exempt assets from the sale of its interest in the Hotel Flamingo, Las Vegas, "custodian accounts."

Life Magazine has accused Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas of accepting a $20,000 fee from Wolson's family foundation and returning it 11 months later, after Wolson had been indicted on charges of violating SEC regulations.

FORTAS' WIFE, a noted tax lawyer who practices as Carolyn Agger, with his former firm of Arnold and Porter, was retained in November 1966 by the Parvin Foundation.

She was retained to evaluate the tax-free status of the foundation headed by Douglas. Although her fee was never disclosed, the 1966 Parvin Foundation returns list "miscellaneous expense — professional fees — $16,058."

Parvin was a partner in Parvin-Dohrmann Co., which owned three casinos in Las Vegas. The foundation's 1967 returns showed the foundation owned about a half million dollars worth of that stock.

The 1967 Parvin return was the most recent one filed. It was reported Parvin's 1968 return must be filed by May 15.

It was Williams who first called attention in 1966 to Douglas' participation in the Parvin Foundation. At that time, Douglas wrote Chief Justice Earl Warren that "historically, many justices have had outside activities."

"LET ME SAY that there has been no conflict whatsoever between the foundation and my work on the court," Douglas wrote Warren then.

Douglas was replying to a letter from Warren. Williams had asked Warren to look into complaints about Douglas' relationship with the Parvin Foundation.

Four Per Cent Rise Predicted for Costs

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (UPI) — Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans' claim Friday that the Nixon Administration is winning the war on inflation ran into a contradictory prediction that prices would rise nearly 4 per cent in 1969.

Stans told the Business Council, a group of top corporation executives meeting here, that the "inflationary psychology" which has encouraged businessmen to buy equipment now to avoid higher prices later has been curbed.

But later, corporation economists, in a report to the council's closed door meeting, predicted a rise of 3.9 per cent in the consumer price index this year — only one-half of 1 per cent below the 4.4 per cent price spiral in 1968.

Other businessmen predicted price increases for automobiles, lumber and retail goods, and one executive said compulsory wage settlements may be needed to halt higher and higher contract settlements in the construction industry in the years to come.

Stans said his department was receiving indications the overall pace of the economy was beginning to slow down for the first time since the Johnson Administration began its all-out campaign against inflation 17 months ago.

The businessmen agreed in general that the economy might be slowing its pace slightly, but said even the slower level of activity was an inflationary one.

But later, corporation economists, in a report to the council's closed door meeting, predicted a rise of 3.9 per cent in the consumer price index this year — only one-half of 1 per cent below the 4.4 per cent price spiral in 1968.

"IF SUCH a global partnership is not forged within the next decade, then I very much fear that the problems I have mentioned will have reached such staggering proportions that they will be beyond our capacity to control."

Thant made the statement to a conference on the second U.N. development decade sponsored by the Institute of Man and Science.

He was critical of what he said was the growing preoccupation of the wealthy countries with their own domestic problems.

"We used to hear it said," he added, "that the greatest obstacle to development lay in the less developed countries themselves — in the reluctance of their governments to undertake proper policies and the unwillingness of backward peoples to adopt new ways. But now the greatest obstacle to development may be our inability to move governments and peoples of the rich nations."

COX FOR COUNCIL

Cut in Pay Hike Not for Solons

WASHINGTON (AP) — House members are displaying little enthusiasm over a move to repeal recently approved pay raises for Congress, federal judges and top government executives.

They are slaying away in droves from a petition that would force a roll-call vote on a bill to cancel out the $12,500 congressional pay hike that went into effect March 1.

THE PETITION needs 218 signatures. It has been in circulation about two weeks. At last count 18 members had signed. Their identities won't be made public unless, and until, 218 names are affixed.

The petition's sponsor, Rep. Gene Snyder, R-Ky., said Friday he has no illusions about obtaining the additional 200 signatures.

"We're not going to get too many," he said in an interview, "unless the mail from back home gets lots heavier."

In the unlikely event that Snyder's move succeeds, the pay raise repealer still would have to run the legislative gauntlet in the Senate.

That body emphatically rejected early this year a resolution that would have vetoed the bill that raised the annual pay of congressmen to $42,500 from $30,000. The House avoided a vote on the issue.

THE RAISES became effective under a law which made them automatic unless vetoed by Senate or House. The same law, unless repealed in the meantime, could result in another built-in boost four years from now.

A separate drive to cut back the congressional raises is being mounted by Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill.

Findley plans to offer a supplemental money bill later this month an amendment to cut the raises in half — make them $6,250 a year instead of $12,500. His proposal would not affect the increases for judges and government executives.

"The argument would be made," he said in an interview, "that the judges and executives already have based their personal budgets on the higher pay and it would be unfair to take the money away."

ON THE OTHER hand, Findley conceded, there probably will be an argument against paying bureaucrats more than members of Congress receive, which would be the result if only congressional salaries were trimmed back.

Findley, like Snyder, isn't optimistic about the success of his plan.

Ike Memorial Plans Abundant

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is considering a growing pile of bills to memorialize Dwight D. Eisenhower. Proposals range from naming the first moon landing site in his honor to putting his picture on the dollar bill in place of George Washington.

"I don't think it's up to us to recommend anything. I can't see a hunk of marble somewhere, though."

Eisenhower seldom publicly discussed his wishes on memorials.

"That would be the last thing Dad would ever talk about," John said. But in a speech at the dedication of Eisenhower Park in Newport, R.I., July 22, 1960, President Eisenhower told the crowd: "I am deeply touched by this kind of gracious incident and thought for the simple reason that a name given to a place like this endures."

Some call for naming a dam after Eisenhower as well as two airports, the interstate highway system and the moon landing site.

ANOTHER bill would put his picture in place of George Washington's on the dollar bill and 25-cent piece.

Eisenhower's family says it has no favorite among the plans.

"We've been very honored by all the propositions," said his son, John, by telephone from his Phoenixville, Pa., home.

Justice Douglas Was Foundation's Only Paid Director

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Tax records for 1967 showed Friday that Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas was the only paid director of the Albert Parvin Foundation of Los Angeles.

Tricia Has Ball Slated for Tonight

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House is being transformed with torchlights, candles, rooftop tents, balloons and blossoms for Tricia Nixon's first big party there — a masked ball tonight.

President and Mrs. Nixon's blonde 23-year-old daughter plans to start the dancing in the East Room with her escort for the evening, bachelor Rep. Barry Goldwater Jr., 30, newly elected from California.

MORE THAN 400 guests are expected for the black tie ball. They are 20-to-30-year-old children of Cabinet, Congress and diplomatic corps of Washington.

Among those invited are the daughters of former President and Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, Lynda and Luci, with their husbands. Marine Maj. Charles S. Robb and Pa-trick J. Nugent.

Nixon is in Florida for the weekend. Mrs. Nixon is at the White House, and said she plans to "peek over the bannister."

Two rock 'n' roll singing groups — The Turtles and The Temptations — and a Navy band combo will entertain and provide dance music. A midnight buffet supper is planned, with champagne, fruit punch and soft drinks.

The 1967 Parvin return was the most recent one filed. It was reported Parvin's 1968 return must be filed by May 15.

It was Williams who first called attention in 1966 to Douglas' participation in the Parvin Foundation. At that time, Douglas wrote Chief Justice Earl Warren that "historically, many justices have had outside activities."

"LET ME SAY that there has been no conflict whatsoever between the foundation and my work on the court," Douglas wrote Warren then.

Douglas was replying to a letter from Warren. Williams had asked Warren to look into complaints about Douglas' relationship with the Parvin Foundation.

Four Per Cent Rise Predicted for Costs

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (UPI) — Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans' claim Friday that the Nixon Administration is winning the war on inflation ran into a contradictory prediction that prices would rise nearly 4 per cent in 1969.

Stans told the Business Council, a group of top corporation executives meeting here, that the "inflationary psychology" which has encouraged businessmen to buy equipment now to avoid higher prices later has been curbed.

But later, corporation economists, in a report to the council's closed door meeting, predicted a rise of 3.9 per cent in the consumer price index this year — only one-half of 1 per cent below the 4.4 per cent price spiral in 1968.

Other businessmen predicted price increases for automobiles, lumber and retail goods and one executive said compulsory wage settlements may be needed to halt higher and higher contract settlements in the construction industry in the years to come.

Stans said his department was receiving indications the overall pace of the economy was beginning to slow down for the first time since the Johnson Administration began its all-out campaign against inflation 17 months ago.

The businessmen agreed in general that the economy might be slowing its pace slightly, but said even the slower level of activity was an inflationary one.

But later, corporation economists, in a report to the council's closed door meeting, predicted a rise of 3.9 per cent in the consumer price index this year — only one-half of 1 per cent below the 4.4 per cent price spiral in 1968.

MAJOR LINES AFFECTED

CAB Suspends Air Fare Hikes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Civil Aeronautics Board Friday suspended a proposed fare increase by five airlines — American, Braniff, Trans World, United and Western.

The board said it took the action to "investigate the reasonableness" of the proposed fare changes. Under the plan some fares would have been adjusted downward, and others raised. But the over-all effect would have been a net fare increase. They were to be effective May 19.

The increases would have brought the five airlines an estimated $30 million in additional annual revenue.

THIS WOULD have been the second fare increase for the airlines this year. In February, CAB approved an increase averaging about 3 per cent.

The board also deferred action on a request that it institute a general investigation of the airline fare structure, and denied a request by 20 members of Congress who asked the board to require the airlines to submit more information on their passenger traffic.

It also expressed concern over what it termed the "presently depressed level" of airline passenger traffic. It called the problem "basic to the economic state of the industry, and one which cannot be solved by a series of fare increases."

Thant Gives Decade to Solve Problems

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — Secretary-General U Thant declared Friday that members of the United Nations have perhaps 10 years to resolve problems threatening survival of mankind.

It was his gloomiest assessment of the world situation since he became secretary-general more than seven years ago.

"I do not wish to seem overdramatic," he said, "but I can only conclude from the information that is available to me as secretary-general that the members of the United Nations have perhaps 10 years left in which to subdue their ancient quarrels and launch a global partnership to curb the arms race, to improve the human environment, to defuse the population explosion, and to supply the required momentum to world development efforts."

"IF SUCH a global partnership is not forged within the next decade, then I very much fear that the problems I have mentioned will have reached such staggering proportions that they will be beyond our capacity to control."

Thant made the state-

Cut in Pay Hike Not for Solons

WASHINGTON (AP) — House members are displaying little enthusiasm over a move to repeal recently approved pay raises for Congress, federal judges and top government executives.

They are staying away in droves from a petition that would force a roll-call vote on a bill to cancel out the $12,500 congressional pay hike that went into effect March 1.

THE PETITION needs 218 signatures. It has been in circulation about two weeks. At last count 18 members had signed. Their identities won't be made public unless, and until, 218 names are affixed.

The petition's sponsor, Rep. Gene Snyder, R-Ky., said Friday he has no illusions about obtaining the additional 200 singers.

"We're not going to get too many," he said in an interview, "unless the mail from back home gets lots heavier."

In the unlikely event that Snyder's move succeeds, the pay raise repealer still would have to run the legislative gauntlet in the Senate.

That body emphatically rejected early this year a resolution that would have vetoed the bill that raised the annual pay of congressmen to $42,500 from $30,000. The House avoided a vote on the issue.

THE RAISES became effective under a law which made them automatic unless vetoed by Senate or House. The same law, unless repealed in the meantime, could result in another built-in bonus four years from now.

A separate drive to cut back the congressional raises is being mounted by Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill.

Findley plans to offer a supplemental money bill later this month an amendment to cut the raises in half — make them $6,250 a year instead of $12,500. His proposal would not affect the increases for judges and government executives.

"The argument would be made," he said in an interview, "that the judges and executives already have based their personal budgets on the higher pay and it would be unfair to take the money away."

ON THE OTHER hand, Findley conceded, there probably will be an argument against paying bureaucrats more than members of Congress receive, which would be the result if only congressional salaries were trimmed back.

Findley, like Snyder, isn't optimistic about the success of his plan.

TRAPPED VAPOR KILLS

Teen-Agers Die From Sniffing Spray Cans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Forty-two youngsters looking for kicks in common spray cans have died after inhaling the mists from such products as mouthwashes and cleaning fluids, according to the Food and Drug Administration.

The victims were mostly teen-agers, but one was only 11 years old, an FDA spokesman said.

"These kids apparently have been spraying products in plastic bags and then sniffing them," reported Joshua Zatman, the FDA's assistant commissioner for education and information.

"Then, if they don't withdraw their heads fast enough, they die."

"It causes some dizziness and some elation with one breath, but if they take two or three breaths it freezes their esophagus, congests their lungs, causes asphyxia. It kills."

ZATMAN SAID the effect of inhaling the sprays is "what doctors call mildly hallucinogenic. It is the same effect you get when you drink a couple of ounces of bourbon or scotch in a hurry."

The lethal element in most of the sprays, he said, is Freon 12 — an inert gas used to propel the products from cans.

"Freon 12 is the same as the gas used in air conditioners, only here it is compressed," he said. "It's the same as what you use to spray on a glass to chill it when you have your afternoon martini."

THE Federal Trade Commission, Zatman said, has issued an order effective May 21 requiring manufacturers of the aerosols to label the cans with a warning.

The FTC warning states: "It is an unfair or deceptive act or practice to fail to provide a clear and conspicuous warning on the labels of such products, that the contents thereof should not be inhaled in concentrated form, and that injury or death may result from such inhalation."

Ike Memorial Plans Abundant

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is considering a growing pile of bills to memorialize Dwight D. Eisenhower. Proposals range from naming the first moon landing site in his honor to putting his picture on the dollar bill in place of George Washington.

Eisenhower seldom publicly discussed his wishes on memorials.

"That would be the last thing Dad would ever talk about," John said. But in a speech at the dedication of Eisenhower Park in Newport, R.I., July 22, 1960, President Eisenhower told the crowd: "I am deeply touched by this kind of gracious incident and thought for the simple reason that a name given to a place like this endures."

Another of his favorite namesakes was Eisenhower College at Seneca Falls, N.Y., which enrolled the charter freshman class of 300 last fall. In the announcement of his death, Eisenhower's family suggested donations to the college, among other charities, instead of flowers.

The bill to name the first U.S. moon landing site "Point Eisenhower" was introduced by Rep. William G. Bray, R-Ind.

THE GOLDEN SPIKE 100 Years Ago Two Trains Met

By JERRY BROWN

PROMONTORY, Utah (AP) — Every year on May 10, residents from and around this tiny northern Utah community re-enact the driving of the golden spike that completed the nation's first transcontinental railroad.

This year it is different. Promontory residents will be on hand today for the re-enactment, but so will a lot of other people because this time it is the 100th anniversary.

There also will be extra frills.

REPLICAS OF two steam engines present at the original lineup have been built especially for the occasion.

Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe will dedicate a new visitors' center and the president of the Association of American Railroads will talk about railroads.

Also to be present are the presidents of the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific railroads. Their companies laid the original track, although the Southern Pacific was called the Central Pacific then.

The dignitaries will ride part of the way from Salt Lake to Promontory on a train pulled by an old-time steam engine, then take automobiles. The original track was torn up during World War II for scrap metal.

The original golden spike was loaned to Utah by Stanford University for the celebration and has been on display for several weeks. Activities have included dances, a symposium on railroads, exhibits and train rides.

The lineup a century ago, historians say,

GARDEN JOBS TO DO

Hybrid tea roses tall basal (succulent) cane, growing up new from the bud union area or from an old rose cane, have tips which should be pinched out when they're a foot-and-a-half or so tall, before they start to develop the rambelabrum growth. Pinching the tips forces several good long branches to sprout which eventually produce lovely individual roses.

Hibiscus flower buds drop may result in immature plants. Erratic spring weather with warm weather suddenly changing to cloudy or foggy weather is a contributory bud drop cause. Too much water may cause such a condition, as may a minute worm that bores into the lower portion of the blossom calyx.

Water container plants slowly, and refill them three or four times as a unit in one watering. Such a watering rinses the soil of any alkali salt build-up, gives roots water, and saves the gardener on frequency of watering.

Normally we sow the seeds of Dimorphotheca (pronounced dy-more-fo-thee'ka) aurantiaca (African Daisy), during the winter for spring and early summer flowers. They've been recommended to be sown for summer too, in sunny flower beds as space fillers for bright colors of yellow, white, and orange, single daisy blossoms.

Gardeners whose time is very limited but who enjoy flowers and splashes of color, welcome such plants for their gardens.

THE SEEDS can be sown on slopes too, where plants receive periodic waterings, in bare parkings, or as temporary space fillers between taller growing shrubs. The seeds must be sown before weather gets hot.

Soil should be moistened well, and in advance of sowing the flower seeds. Scratch the soil to make a seed bed. Mix the seeds in a bucket of sand; manure would be better. The material acts as a seed separator, to bring about a more even scattering of the seeds which don't bunch together in separate groups. Lightly rake seed into the soil, then scatter a thin layer of manure — one sack to each 200 square feet of area sown. Keep it moist like a newly sown lawn until plants have grown an inch long. Protect the young seedlings from snails and slugs by scattering an effective snailslug bait.

Actually, the ceremony almost didn't happen at all. A Union Pacific official was kidnaped while enroute to Promontory and held hostage by irate workers demanding back pay. The workers got their money and the official finally got to Promontory. But once officials arrived on the scene, they had trouble agreeing on a program.

The top official present from each company finally met five minutes before the ceremony and agreed on an agenda.

THE ONLY real advance preparation was the wiring of a spike and hammer to telegraph lines so the driving of the final spike could be "Broadcast" around the nation.

Legend says the railroad official who swung the hammer missed — but a nearby telegraph operator depressed his key and the nation heard what it thought was the driving of the final spike.

The luck of formal plans was not too surprising. The two railroads had engaged in bitter competition for nearly seven years to see who could lay the most track.

The competition was so fierce that Congress finally had to intervene and name a location for the lineup when the companies began laying parallel, and even intersecting, track.

POTULACA grandiflora (Rose or Sun moss) flowers range in shiny colors of rose, purple, white, pink, yellow and red. This blooming summer ground cover, with thin fleshy foliage, somewhat like thin leafed ice plants may be used for plantings similar to the African daisy.

These two kinds of plants Dimorphotheca aurantiaca and Portulaca grandiflora may be available in flats of pony paks.

For finer annual cut-flower plants it is time to plant out from pony paks or flats if we expect to harvest summer cutflowers. Plants providing lots of "living color" in our sunny flower beds, are zinnias, asters, phlox, petunias, large flowered and dwarf sized marigolds, celosia, ageratum, flaming foliage amaranthus. Colorful leafed celosia, must be at least in half day of shade.

ONE OF the annuals for shady garden areas that some gardeners are unfamiliar with is Torenia. The bushy plants grow to about a foot tall. They are snapdragon-like blue with violet lips and yellow throats, that are a welcome addition to such garden areas. Wholesale bed-

CLUB NOTES

Long Beach Garden Club will observe Long Beach Beautiful Planting Day by dedicating a memorial garden in Recreation Park. Five liquidambar trees will be planted northeast of Federation Drive and 7th Street, in memory of past members.

Shade loving perennials for summer-fall color are begonias, impatiens (pronounced im-pati-ents), coleus, and a flavorful shrub-like plant, the fuchsias. The basket (cascade) type are showy in the lath house, hanging from a tree branch or shaded porch, and may even be planted in the shady garden outdoor planter box.

Members and friends will have a picnic lunch in the picnic area. Guests are welcome, but are asked to bring their own lunches.

Mrs. Evelyn Housley will talk on cutting and conditioning branches and conditioning to prolong their keeping quality.

The Long Beach Garden Club is a member of the California Garden Clubs Inc.

THE MONTHLY meeting of the Long Beach African Violet Society will be held Thursday at the Women's City Club, 1309 E. Third St. The program speaker will be Mrs. Eleanor Reisner. The culture class will begin at 10:30 a.m., with a social hour following at 11.

Plants and supplies will be offered for sale. The public is welcome.

GARDEN CLINIC

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

Q.—Your garden pages have helped us with planting and insect problems in our yard. Now we need help again. We have a large magnolia tree in the middle of our front yard lawn. Our home faces west and only a small portion of the lawn gets warm sun due to this huge tree. We've planted about one-third of the lawn with Ajuga ground cover, with various plants in it. Due to the density of the tree's root growth we don't have any success with ground covers, or anything else in this area. Plants barely manage to struggle along and nothing seems to help, although they are regularly treated and fed. Can you recommend a ground cover which might grow in this area?

A.—About the only ground cover that fights such a vicious tree-root invasion is Mondo grass. We've seen such a ground cover under an avocado tree, and you know what a massive string-like root system such a tree has. Mondo grass has tough grass-like leaves a dark green color. It grows in mounding masses to about eight inches tall. The roots will more than hold their own against the magnolia tree roots. Plants are available in pony paks or flats. Space them about six inches apart. Prepare the holes with some organic material mixed with the soil. Topdress after planting with steer manure or some spread mulch material. Keep moist. Three weeks later, apply a weak solution of liquid turf fertilizer. Continue feeding in this way at about monthly intervals throughout the summer. You may not like the pasture-grass like cover, but it is about the only one that is tough enough to hold its own against the magnolia tree roots.

PORTULACA grandiflora (Rose or Sun moss) flowers range in shiny colors of rose, purple, white, pink, yellow and red. This blooming summer ground cover, with thin fleshy foliage, somewhat like thin leafed ice plants may be used for plantings similar to the African daisy.

These two kinds of plants Dimorphotheca aurantiaca and Portulaca grandiflora may be available in flats of pony paks.

For finer annual cut-flower plants it is time to plant out from pony paks or flats if we expect to harvest summer cutflowers. Plants providing lots of "living color" in our sunny flower beds, are zinnias, asters, phlox, petunias, large flowered and dwarf sized marigolds, celosia, ageratum, flaming foliage amaranthus. Colorful leafed celosia, must be at least in half day of shade.

THE ONLY real advance preparation was the wiring of a spike and hammer to telegraph lines so the driving of the final spike could be "Broad-cast" around the nation.

Legend says the railroad official who swung the hammer missed — but a nearby telegraph operator depressed his key and the nation heard what it thought was the driving of the final spike.

The lack of formal plans was not too surprising. The two railroads had engaged in bitter competition for nearly seven years to see who could lay the most track.

The competition was so fierce that Congress finally had to intervene and name a location for the linkup when the companies began laying parallel, and even intersecting, track.

ONE OF the annuals for shady garden areas that some gardeners are unfamiliar with is Torenia. The bushy plants grow to about a foot tall. They are snapdragon-like blue with violet lips and yellow throats, that are a welcome addition to such garden areas. Wholesome bedding.

An avocado tree should be protected from the winds and the sun. There should be three upright stakes around the tree, but a foot beyond the tips of the outward spreading branches. The stakes should be a foot taller than the tree. One should be placed to the east of the tree, another to the south, the third to the west. A burlap strip or several folds of cheesecloth about three feet wide should be nailed from the top of the stakes down. The north side of the tree should be left open.

CLUB NOTES

Long Beach Garden Club will observe Long Beach Beautiful Planting Day by dedicating a memorial garden in Recreation Park. Five liquidambar trees will be planted northeast of Federation Drive and 7th Street, in memory of past members.

Shade loving perennials for summer-fall color are begonias, impatiens (pronounced im-pa-tienz) coleus, and a flowerful shrub-like plant, the fuchsias. The basket (cascade) type are showy in the lath house, hanging from a tree branch or shaded porch, and may even be planted in the shady garden outdoor planter box. The upright bush-form fuchsias add lots of interesting summer and fall color in the shade garden, or in containers in the shady part of patio. Folk in milder, drier areas can grow fuchsias because there are several varieties that stand such conditions if shower-bathed periodically. Check with your nurseryman.

FRUIT TREES, shrubs, and shade trees planted now from containers will have some mild weather in which to get growth started and become somewhat acclimated to your garden conditions, before the hot season.

LIQUID OXALIS-KIL

GARDEN CLINIC

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

Q.—Your garden pages have helped us with planting and insect problems in our yard. Now we need help again. We have a large magnolia tree in the middle of our front yard lawn. Our home faces west and only a small portion of the lawn gets warm sun due to this huge tree. We've planted about one-third of the lawn with Ajuga ground cover, with various plants in it. Due to the density of the tree's root growth we don't have any success with ground covers, or anything else in this area. Plants barely manage to struggle along and nothing seems to help, although they are regularly treated and fed. Can you recommend a ground cover which might grow in this area?

A.—About the only ground cover that fights such a vicious tree-root invasion is Mondo grass. We've seen such a ground cover under an avocado tree, and you know what a massive string-like root system such a tree has. Mondo grass has tough grass-like leaves a dark green color. It grows in mounding masses to about eight inches tall. The roots will more than hold their own against the magnolia tree roots. Plants are available in pony paks or flats. Space them about six inches apart. Prepare the holes with some organic material mixed with the soil. Topdress after planting with steer manure or some spread mulch material. Keep moist. Three weeks later, apply a weak solution of liquid turf fertilizer. Continue feeding in this way at about monthly intervals throughout the summer. You may not like the pasture-grass like cover, but it is about the only one that is tough enough to hold its own against the magnolia tree roots.

Members and friends will have a picnic lunch in the picnic area. Guests are welcome, but are asked to bring their own lunches.

Mrs. Evelyn Housley will talk on cutting and conditioning branches and flowers to prolong their keeping quality.

The Long Beach Garden Club is a member of the California Garden Clubs Inc.

THE MONTHLY meeting of the Long Beach African Violet Society will be held Thursday at the Women's City Club, 1309 E. Third St. The program speaker will be Mrs. Eleanor Reisner. The culture class will begin at 10:30 a.m., with a social hour following at 11.

Plants and supplies will be offered for sale. The public is welcome.

"Doc" Cha-Kem-Co says: From Cha-Kem-Co Research Comes LIQUID OXALIS-KIL

Kills Common Yellow Oxalis in 48 hours, or less in HOT weather, in Dichondra and Grass Lawns, Ivy, Ajuga, Iceplant, Strawberry and Flower Beds. Old infestations may require two or more treatments.

Identifying features of Yellow Oxalis: Grows lushly winter and summer. Spreads rapidly. Propagates from seed and surface runners. Resembles bur clover, but grows taller and has greener color. Will choke out any type of lawn and most ground covers, if not controlled.

LIQUID OXALIS-KIL provides GREATER SAFETY because of its GREATER SELECTIVITY

Cho-Kem-Co Liquid Oxalis-Kil is a new product. It is now being packaged under U.S. Patent No. 3,414,098. Certainly spraying is better than this.

24 Cans of Film Veritably on Ice

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Each time actor Henry Beckman goes to the refrigerator for a beer he is confronted by 24 cans of undeveloped film.

It breaks his heart.

Henry is the only guy in town with an unfinished movie in the kitchen.

FOR THOSE to whom Henry's name and face are not as familiar as, say, Cary Grant, he was crazy George Anderson in "Peyton Place" who was finally put away.

He also is remembered on television as Colonel Harrigan in "McHale's Navy" and Robert Dangefield Mulligan in "I'm Dickens, He's Fenster."

Currently he is Captain Clancy in "Here Come the Brides."

On screen he is a loser.

"I usually play Irishmen," he said with a sigh. "I don't know why that is except that I'm half Irish and half foolish."

"But I was the star in the movie I got in the refrigerator. I also wrote and directed the picture and was coproducer. But we never finished it."

THE MOVIE, "The Queen Mother Caper," is an adventure comedy yarn set in Canada where Beckman and his partner shot 10,000 feet of film.

As Beckman tells it, his partner and he had some sort of falling out, disagreement or outright battle.

"The result was that he left town," Beckman said. "And I got stuck with these 24 cans of undeveloped film. I have to keep it refrigerated or it will fade out and the color will run.

"What really bothers me is that I haven't seen a foot of the picture yet because we haven't had the negative developed."

"What else can I do with it?" he asks.

The actor takes great comfort in the fact that he didn't put any of his own money in the project.

"I'll just keep the film in the refrigerator until something happens," Beckman said, discouraged. "It could be there another two years. Maybe longer."

TV Dinners Big in South Africa

BRACKPAN, South Africa (UPI) — There is no television in South Africa, but American-style TV dinners are a big success.

A food company that introduced the dinners a few weeks ago says they are selling at more than 1,000 a day.

SHOSTAKOVICH FESTIVAL

Musafia Rare, Neat

By DANIEL CARIAGA
Music Critic

A miniature, two-event Shostakovich festival this weekend is the ninth annual David Vazquez Scholarship Fund observance at Cal State, Long Beach. It commenced Thursday night in the college's very little Little Theater.

This year, as in several former years, the principal participant is Julien Musafia, the pianist who succeeded to Vazquez' post at CSLB two years after the latter's death in 1958.

MUSAFIA put together, rehearsed, and oversaw the Shostakovich evenings, the first of which consisted of the Preludes and Fugues 13 through 18 of Opus 87; "From Jewish Folk Poetry," Opus 79; and the Concertino for two pianos, Opus 94.

Because Musafia's devotion to the composer's spirit and his understanding of the composer's style are both profound and contagious, the Thursday program was that rare combination of neat and near-flawless execution, and effortlessly projected musicality. What a shame such a small crowd — less than 200 in a hall which seats only 500 — was on hand to greet the performers.

The focus of interest in this first evening fell, naturally, on the pianist's second installment (the first was given here 13 months ago) of the 24 Preludes and Fugues of Opus 87. Musafia played them as if he owned them, which, in an artistic and editorial way, he does.

None of the lyric content of the work — and it is no too much to say that Shostakovich has written here some of the most lyric piano pieces since Brahms — was slighted. On the contrary, we heard some ravishingly bated piano playing, a full dynamic spectrum, plus all the important inner workings of the multi-voiced fugues. But overstatement, indulgence, and self-communion were avoided at every turn. Directness was the keynote of the performance.

Nor was there any letdown after intermission, when Musafia engaged the services of soprano Jean Tyndall, contralto Iris Eshelman, tenor Frank Aljen, and pianist Dottie Nix, for the song-cycle and concerto.

THE SINGERS, each of whom possesses the necessary expressive and rich voice for this assignment, shone throughout. Mrs.

Tyndall, in particular, brought to the tenth item, "Song of a Maiden," the requisite beauty of tone and linear mastery; she spun out the final, sustained C-sharp most beguilingly.

Dottie Nix, a CSLB graduate who continues the impressive line of pianists which began with David Vazquez, proved again a young musician of resource and temperament as she joined her former teacher as duo-piano partner. Only a few moments revealed that their collaboration has not been extensive; otherwise, they go together at two pianos like salt and pepper.

A review of the Friday Shostakovich event will appear in these pages Monday.

SHOSTAKOVICH FESTIVAL

Musafia Rare, Neat

By DANIEL CARIAGA
Music Critic

A miniature, two-event Shostakovich festival this weekend is the ninth annual David Vazquez Scholarship Fund observance at Cal State, Long Beach. It commenced Thursday night in the college's very little Little Theater.

This year, as in several former years, the principal participant is Julien Musafia, the pianist who succeeded to Vazquez' post at CSLB two years after the latter's death in 1958.

MUSAFIA put together, rehearsed, and oversaw the Shostakovich evenings, the first of which consisted of the Preludes and Fugues 13 through 18 of Opus 87; "From Jewish Folk Poetry," Opus 79; and the Concertino for two pianos, Opus 94.

Because Musafia's devotion to the composer's spirit and his understanding of the composer's style are both profound and contagious, the Thursday program was that rare combination of neat and near-flawless execution, and effortlessly projected musicality. What a shame such a small crowd — less than 200 in a hall which seats only 500 — was on hand to greet the performers.

Nor was there any letdown after intermission, when Musafia engaged the services of soprano Jean Tyndall, contralto Iris Eshelman, tenor Frank Aljen, and pianist Dottie Nix, for the song-cycle and concerto.

THE SINGERS, each of whom possesses the necessary expressive and rich voice for this assignment, shone throughout. Mrs.

first was given here 13 months ago) of the 24 Preludes and Fugues of Opus 87. Musafia played them as if he owned them, which, in an artistic and editorial way, he does.

Tyndall, in particular, brought to the tenth item, "Song of a Maiden," the requisite beauty of tone and linear mastery; she spun out the final, sustained C-sharp most beguilingly.

Dottie Nix, a CSLB graduate who continues the impressive line of pianists which began with David Vazquez, proved again a young musician of resource and temperament as she joined her former teacher as duo-piano partner. Only a few moments revealed that their collaboration has not been extensive; otherwise, they go together at two pianos like salt and pepper.

A review of the Friday Shostakovich event will appear in these pages Monday.

SANTA SURVIVES

St. Nicholas Among Downgraded Saints

ST. CHRISTOPHER DROPPED BY VATICAN
Existence of Travelers' Patron Questioned

SHOP OWNERS HAPPY

St. Christopher's Impact Remains

ROME (UPI) — His standing at the Vatican may be sharply diminished, but St. Christopher is still a potent force in Rome's rich tourist industry.

"I don't care what the Pope says," said a sales clerk in Billi's Souvenir Shop one block from St. Peter's. "We will always sell a lot of St. Christopher medals."

Reaction was similar at the other shops lining the wide Via Della Conciliazione which leads into St. Peter's Square.

"I am not worried," said sales girl Maria Rita Grenato, 20. "I do not understand why the Pope did it, but I don't care."

WHAT THE Pope did was strike Christopher, considered by millions of Roman Catholics as patron saint of travelers, from the official church list of saints who must be paid homage in prayers on special days.

St. Christopher's Day was July 25.

However, since Christopher may still be privately named in prayers, he does not lose his status as sainthood, much as the Vatican may question it.

Nothing is known about Christopher and even when and where he lived is a mystery. Church historians long ago dismissed as absurd a legend that he carried the Christ child across a river.

But from this gradually grew Christopher's links with travelers.

And in a city where millions pass through as travelers, Christopher means big business.

"We sell many, many St. Christopher medals," said Dea Bedim, 19. "Americans come in and buy maybe 15 at a time."

After medals of Jesus Christ, the Virgin Mary and Joseph, shopkeepers estimated, their biggest sellers are Christopher and Pope John XXIII.

Some of the Christopher medals are gold and sell for as much as $17.80 but smaller aluminum medals meant to dangle from a rear view mirror cost only a few cents.

Shops display them in a score of sizes, shapes and colors.

THE MANAGER of D'agostini's Souvenir Shop called his wife to tell her the news.

"Do the Americans have to throw away their St. Christopher?" she asked.

"No," her husband said. "It said on the radio he is still a saint."

"Then we won't go out of business," she said.

Another shopowner said he had another best seller in the event Christopher medals stayed on the shelf.

"Look," he said, pulling a silver medal from under the glass counter.

On the side of the medallion was a three-dimensional portrait of John F. Kennedy. On the other was Robert F. Kennedy.

But from this gradually vent Forman from disrupting its services, as he did last Sunday.

Forman demanded that the Catholic Church pay two-fifths of the sum he is seeking. He made his demand in a meeting with Rev. Msgr. Joseph O'Brien, vicar general of the New York Archdiocese.

At the same time, Riverside Church obtained a restraining order to pre-

VATICAN CITY (UPI) —

Pope Paul VI Friday announced a major reform of the Roman Catholic Church list of approved and recognized saints. St. Nicholas, better known as Santa Claus, was demoted and St. Christopher, protector of travelers, was dropped altogether.

The sweeping reform of the church calendar — a list which includes feasts, fasts, special days, and other religious occasions — downgraded dozens of saints whose existence or exploits are now doubtful. The decree was aimed at putting more emphasis on the crucifixion and Christ.

The exact number of saints affected by the decree, dated Feb. 14 and effective Jan. 1, was not known because the Vatican did not issue an official list of those dropped or demoted, only of those still in good standing. Newsman had to compare old calendars with the new list. There were at least 40 affected.

Among those also reduced in stature was St. George, once considered to be the model of knighthood, and credited in legend with the slaying of the dragon.

Saint Nicholas, a third century saint whose Latin name, Sanctus Nicolaus, gradually became Santa Claus, remains on the church calendar. But Catholics are no longer obliged to honor him on his special day — Dec. 6.

'None of the saints, was however, stripped of his sainthood. The faithful in some of the saints' home cities or nations may still pay homage.

St. Christopher is one of the most popular saints, his medallion hanging around the neck of millions of travelers or on their key rings.

On the list of those saints whose existence is unchallenged but who are little known outside their own countries and their feast days therefore made optional were St. Bacchus, St. Nympha, St. Lucy — celebrated in song as Santa Lucia — and St. Susanna, for whom the American national church in Rome is named.

Vatican sources said the Pope had downgraded the role of saints in Catholic worship and shifted emphasis to Christ's death and resurrection in a move intended to spur efforts toward Christian unity.

Rev. Pierre Journe of Paris who explained the decree at a news conference said it did not mean that myriads of motorists in the U.S. and elsewhere should throw away their Christopher medallions.

The decree does not ban private prayer to the saint, who according to legend carried the Christ child on his shoulders across a river. But Christopher will no longer be universally mentioned at Mass on what used to be his feast day.

Also reduced in stature St. George, who is the patron saint of England. Britain is dotted with scores of statues of St. George, sword in hand, he is a British national symbol.

Journe said dubious saints were removed from the calendar "because the Christian people can be invited to official prayer only in the certainty of truth."

BRIEFLY...

Disruption Is Hit; Nixon to Chaplain

Disruption of a Holy Communion service in New York by a black militant leader last Sunday drew no support from Protestant leaders. Rev. Ernest T. Campbell, pastor of the Riverside Church, which is affiliated both with the American Baptist Convention and the United Church of Christ, denied James Forman permission to read his statement of demands, including financial "reparation" for the historic wrongs done to Negroes, and ended the services abruptly following the opening hymn.

Rev. Edwin H. Tuller, executive secretary of the ABC at Valley Forge, Pa., said simply, "I do not think it is right or proper for a group to disrupt a worship service."

Rev. Dan B. Potter, head of the Council of Churches in the city, said that "the wires have been burning here" with calls for vigorous opposition to Forman's tactics.

One Council executive, Rev. Jon L. Regier of the National Missions Work, without condoning the tactics used, said however, "The question of reparations is a very serious issue that white America has to face, and we haven't done it."

The first Negro Stated Clerk of the Presbytery of New York City, Rev. Robert P. Johnson, said the action "presents those of us who are in the churches with a dramatic and forceful display of the gap between the secure members of society and the desperate members." He went on to reject the concept of reparations, saying it "is predicated on the war image." Asked about the tactics employed, he said: "I'm not issuing a carte blanche for their tactics, but neither am I issuing a condemnation."

Most vigorous criticism came from Rt. Rev. Horace Donegan, Episcopal bishop of New York, who said that the "record of the churches is clear in terms of our black brethren. While we acknowledge with regret the unhappy existence of racism in some places within the Christian body, the leadership of our church has been with the black people and all oppressed minorities all the way." He warned that the time may come when "existing law enforcing agencies may have to be called upon for the purpose of safety."

THE FOLLOWING telegram was proudly received from the White House by Long Beach Chaplain pioneer Fred C. Crumb, completing 25 years of devoted voluntary work:

"PLEASE ACCEPT MY WARM GOOD WISHES AS YOU COMPLETE A QUARTER CENTURY OF INSTITUTIONAL CHAPLAINCY. IT MUST BE MOST REWARDING FOR YOU TO LOOK BACK ON YOUR LONG YEARS OF SERVICE TO HUMANITY. AND IT MUST BE GRATIFYING TO KNOW THAT YOU HAVE LENT SPIRITUAL GUIDANCE, COMFORT AND COMPASSION TO SO MANY NEEDY AND SUFFERING MEN AND WOMEN."

"I FULLY UNDERSTAND THE WARM FEELING OF APPRECIATION AND THE SPECIAL PRIDE WHICH YOUR FRIENDS AND BENEFICIARIES FEEL ON THIS OCCASION, AND I JOIN THEM IN SENDING YOU MY OWN WHOLEHEARTED CONGRATULATIONS. MAY GOD BLESS YOU ALWAYS."

RICHARD NIXON.

TOURS TO HIGHLIGHT ECUMENICAL FORUMS

Newcomers May Enter Sessions Mon., Tues.

Area churchmen and churchwomen are offered the opportunity of a series of educational tours as the May Ecumenical Forums go into their second week — with sessions on Monday and Tuesday.

Those who missed last week's opening programs are welcome to join and attend these and following sessions on an individual basis, says Charles C. Tingley, dean of the forums, which are sponsored by the Long Beach Area Council of Churches.

All reports by those who attended last week were of stimulating, provocative and useful sessions.

Monday will be highlighted by three tours. At 1:20 p.m., there will be a tour of the Department of Public Social Services, 1917 Long Beach Blvd., with explanations of the work, and dialogue. Those interested are asked to meet there at that hour.

At 7:15 p.m. the Community Involvement forum will meet at St. Luke's Episcopal Church, Seventh and Atlantic, for a tour of community agencies.

Also at 7:15 p.m., the Youth Culture forum will meet at Los Altos Methodist Church, 5950 E. Willow St., to begin a tour of youth hangouts and centers.

Small Group Experiences will meet at 7:30 at St. Luke's Episcopal.

Tuesday's sessions, all at 7:30 p.m., are as follows, with registration for the single event also OK:

Community Involvement — "State Legislative Issues," with Mrs. Carol Marsh, of Assemblyman Cullen's office — St. Luke's Episcopal Church.

Inter-Faith Dialogue — "Basic Beliefs," with a panel of clergymen, at St. Anthony's Catholic Church cafeteria, 540 Olive Ave.

Youth Culture — Repeating Monday's tour of youth hangouts and centers, meeting at Los Altos Methodist Church.

Presbyterians to Face Hot Issues; 3 L. B. Pastor-Delegates Tell Views

By LES RODNEY

Three Long Beach-area pastors who have been elected as commissioners (voting delegates) to the 181st General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church opening Wednesday in San Antonio, foresee vigorous discussion on some of the issues slated to come before the denomination's supreme policy-making body.

The three — Rev. James R. Deemer of Long Beach First Church on Atlantic Avenue, Rev. John C. Bonner of Lakewood's Christ Presbyterian, and Rev. Arthur F. Suelz of Lakewood First — will join with some 800 others, divided between ministers and laymen, elected from the church's membership of 3.2 million. The denomination lists more than 9,000 congregations in all the 50 states. There are 82 Presbyterians in Congress, largest number after Methodists from any Protestant church, and no less than five of President Nixon's 12 cabinet appointees are Presbyterians.

Though like all branches of the Christian church it has its problems, the historic denomination has rebounded well from its vigorous inner-debate on the Confession of 1967, an updated addition to the basic documents of the faith. The minority which was in disagreement has remained within the church.

Uncertainty of some who wondered if the new Confession meant watering down of the faith, rather than modernizing the message for the 20th Century, has largely been allayed. In some areas of the nation, modest but encouraging success has been reported in reversing the trend of alienation from the organized church by college-age youth and minorities.

On the horizon, though not on the agenda this year, is possible reunion with the Southern wing of Presbyterianism, a question opened by the latter at its recent convention. As with the Methodists, the break occurred in the Civil War period. The Methodist reconciliation, in 1939, added great national strength to that denomination. The Southern Presbyterians, along with the United Presbyterians, are part of the Consultation on Church Union, an exploration by 10 denominations of the possibility of Protestant unity.

The San Antonio convention, which will run through May 21, will vote on a broad range of issues, involving the church's worship, work and stance, including plans for a major reorganization into regional synods. Other overtures (proposals) from the presbyteries deal with such questions as voluntary prayer in public buildings, the tax exempt status of the churches, the concept of a "just" war and conscientious objection, opposition to the ABM, the church's ecumenical involvements, ghetto investment policies, use of folk songs in a book of worship, control of pornographic material, minister's salaries and other questions.

The General Assembly has met annually without interruption since 1789.

in the possibility that it could suggest a working solution for a united Protestant church of the future.

A major hangup for the Consultation on Church Union is the incompatibility of the Episcopal structure of bishops' authority, and the loose, local autonomy of the congregational churches. Presbyterians are seen as falling somewhere between the extremes.

"The thrust of the regional synod idea," elaborated Rev. Deemer, "is also for more effective mission within our denomination, adjusted to population shifts. Rather than the original arbitrary division into states, they will relate to areas of similar concentration and mission."

"That's what we've done in Southern California. In effect, we have created a large metropolitan synod — divided into three presbyteries."

At the same time, he further explained, while such logical regional units will formulate overall program for their areas, a process of decentralization on the local level will also take place.

"This would mean more initiative in tackling on the local scene," said Rev. Deemer.

Opposition to the reorganization plan has come in the form of "overtures" by eight synods.

"There's always resistance to change," commented Rev. Deemer, "It should be expected. I anticipate that there will be general approval for the plan, with some amendments and modifications."

As for the ecumenical implications, Rev. Deemer feels this way:

"I tend to believe the effect and strength of the Christian church depend on a greater unity in action — with safeguards. I want to see historic Protestantism and historic Presbyterianism in control at the grass roots. After all, I'm not a Catholic. I don't want absolute control from a center."

"But I am all for ecumenism in the spiritual sense, as Christ said we must love one another."

Rev. Deemer sees another possible point of emphasis for the General Assembly on the minority question.

"The convention being held in San Antonio, with its large Spanish-speaking section, should spur our thinking, not to do any less by any means on civil rights for the Negro, but to pay more attention to other minorities."

He also saw the possibility of heated discussion on "the rash of violence."

"This is the question of how you state legitimate Christian concerns, as opposed to the freedom to use violence . . ."

But, Presbyterians being people with strong individual opinions — "one can't guess exactly what will happen at San Antonio. Something else entirely may explode and become the central issue."

SUELZ: Overall Mission

Can End 'Polarization'

Rev. Arthur F. Suelz of Lakewood First saw the General Assembly "struggling to put together what it is we really agree on."

"The need is to avoid polarization between those only concerned with saving men's souls, and those concerned only with changing for the better the environment in which men live," he said.

"My hope is that we can come out of this assembly with a sense of mission that incorporates both. Just the fact that many are aware that a negative polarization could happen, I think is hopeful."

On one of the specific overtures to be discussed,

Presbyterians to Face Hot Issues; 3 L. B. Pastor-Delegates Tell Views

By LES RODNEY

Three Long Beach-area pastors who have been elected as commissioners (voting delegates) to the 181st General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church opening Wednesday in San Antonio, foresee vigorous discussion on some of the issues slated to come before the denomination's supreme policy-making body.

The three — Rev. James R. Deemer of Long Beach First Church on Atlantic Avenue, Rev. John C. Bonner of Lakewood's Christ Presbyterian, and Rev. Arthur F. Sueltz of Lakewood First — will join with some 800 others, divided between ministers and laymen, elected from the church's membership of 3.2 million. The denomination lists more than 9,000 congregations in all the 50 states. There are 82 Presbyterians in Congress, largest number after Methodists from any Protestant church, and no less than five of President Nixon's 12 cabinet appointees are Presbyterians.

Though like all branches of the Christian church it has its problems, the historic denomination has rebounded well from its vigorous inner-debate on the Confession of 1967, an updated addition to the basic documents of the faith.

The minority which was in disagreement has remained within the church.

Uncertainty of some who wondered if the new Confession meant watering down of the faith, rather than modernizing the message for the 20th Century, has largely been allayed. In some areas of the nation, modest but encouraging success has been reported in reversing the trend of alienation from the organized church by college-age youth and minorities.

On the horizon, though not on the agenda this year, is possible reunion with the Southern wing of Presbyterianism, a question opened by the latter at its recent convention. As with the Methodists, the break occurred in the Civil War period. The Methodist reconciliation, in 1939, added great national strength to that denomination. The Southern Presbyterians, along with the United Presbyterians, are part of the Consultation on Church Union, an exploration by 10 denominations of the possibility of Protestant unity.

The San Antonio convention, which will run through May 21, will vote on a broad range of issues, involving the church's worship, work and stance, including plans for a major reorganization into regional synods. Other overtures (proposals) from the presbyteries deal with such questions as voluntary prayer in public buildings, the tax exempt status of the churches, the concept of a "just" war and conscientious objection, opposition to the ABM, the church's ecumenical involvements, ghetto investment policies, use of folk songs in a book of worship, control of pornographic material, minister's salaries and other questions.

The General Assembly has met annually without interruption since 1789.

in the possibility that it could suggest a working solution for a united Protestant church of the future.

A major hangup for the Consultation on Church Union is the incompatibility of the Episcopal structure of bishops' authority, and the loose, local autonomy of the congregational churches. Presbyterians are seen as falling somewhere between the extremes.

"The thrust of the regional synod idea," elaborated Rev. Deemer, "is also for more effective mission within our denomination, adjusted to population shifts. Rather than the original arbitrary division into states, they will relate to areas of similar concentration and mission."

"That's what we've done in Southern California. In effect, we have created a large metropolitan synod — divided into three presbyteries."

At the same time, he further explained, while such logical regional units will formulate overall program for their areas, a process of decentralization on the local level will also take place.

"This would mean more initiative in tackling on the local scene," said Rev. Deemer.

Opposition to the reorganization plan has come in the form of "overtures" by eight synods.

"There's always resistance to change," commented Rev. Deemer, "it should be expected. I anticipate that there will be general approval for the plan, with some amendments and modifications."

As for the ecumenical implications, Rev. Deemer feels this way:

"I tend to believe the effect and strength of the Christian church depend on a greater unity in action — with safeguards. I want to see historic Protestantism and historic Presbyterianism in control at the grass roots. After all, I'm not a Catholic. I don't want absolute control from a center."

"But I am all for ecumenism in the spiritual sense, as Christ said we must love one another."

Rev. Deemer sees another possible point of emphasis for the General Assembly on the minority question.

"The convention being held in San Antonio, with its large Spanish-speaking section, should spur our thinking, not to do any less by any means on civil right for the Negro, but to pay more attention to other minorities."

He also saw the possibility of heated discussion on "the rash of violence."

"This is the question of how you state legitimate Christian concerns, as opposed to the freedom to use violence . . ."

But, Presbyterians being people with strong individual opinions — "one can't guess exactly what will happen at San Antonio. Something else entirely may explode and become the central issue."

SUELZ: Overall Mission Can End 'Polarization'

Rev. Arthur F. Sueltz of Lakewood First saw the General Assembly "struggling to put together what it is we really agree on."

"The need is to avoid polarization between those only concerned with saving men's souls, and those concerned only with changing for the better the environment in which men live," he said.

"My hope is that we can come out of this assembly with a sense of mission that incorporates both. Just the fact that many are aware that a negative polarization could happen, I think is hopeful."

On one of the specific overtures to be discussed,

BONNER: Church Has Role Against Pornography

Rev. John C. Bonner of Christ Presbyterian in Lakewood, rates the fight against pornography high on the list of concerns he will take to the General Assembly.

A study of "the adequacy of current legislation under which pornography is defined and controlled" and "education and action that will inform the church and encourage its members to appropriate community action" is the subject of an overture from the local presbytery.

It was Christ Presbyterian which launched a fight against the street sale of the Los Angeles Free Press a year ago. They didn't win that one, but they did arouse wide support.

The church's campaign was responsible for some 10,000 letters to the solons in Sacramento. "There are signs of an awakening to the fact of pornography in the state," said the minister. "And President Nixon recently had some strong words. We would like to think our efforts had a little something to do with this."

As to whether the church has a role to play against pornography:

"You bet," said Rev. Bonner emphatically.

"I know, you get into the sticky question of censorship. I'm against censorship too, but I'm convinced something has got to be done," he continued.

"I discovered that some of our legislators don't know what the problem is. They have no idea of what anyone can buy and read in some book stores right here in Long Beach, for instance. I'm not a prude. I was in the Army. But I feel we must show people what is being put out freely today. This shocks some people. But shock is a time-honored method. It works to awaken folks. Some people just don't believe us until they see it in print."

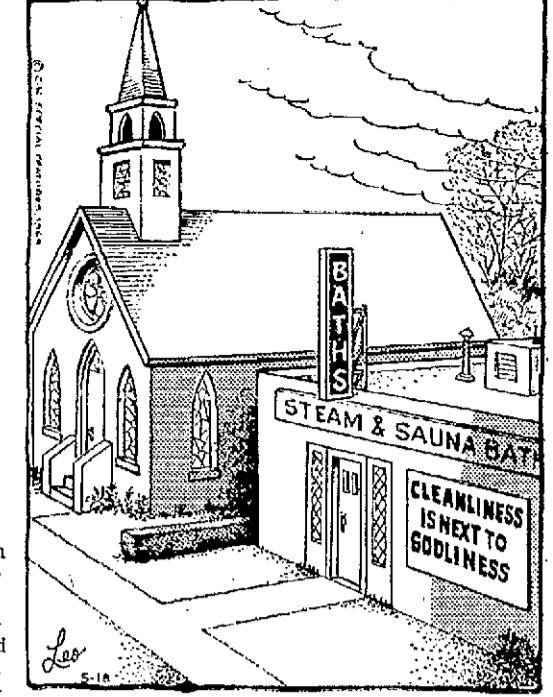

Rev. Bonner realizes the negative impact of the word censorship, but:

"Some forms of censorship are necessary. We must take a common sense approach. If I tell my son he may not do something harmful, that's censorship, isn't it? A youngster may not buy a bottle of whiskey, that's good censorship. This pornography has reached the stage where that kind of common sense is called for."

On another matter slated to come before the General Assembly — the question of religious tax exemptions, the Lakewood pastor agrees with those who feel buildings and enterprises not used for worship should be taxed.

"I think the church should carry its own weight in society. There have been too many exemptions that are not called for. I'm for exploring this whole area."

Resolutions on economic justice, international and national, will be debated and voted by delegates. The tentative resolution on economic justice (international) urges that United States foreign policy give first priority to more liberal free trade policies in favor of less industrialized countries, and also urges a reversal of the present trend toward decreasing foreign aid.

How You Start Day Is Important

By NORMAN V. PEALE

A friend suddenly started practicing a drastically different attitude every morning. Result: He became a happy man and more capable too.

Before this dramatic change his thoughts each morning focused on all the difficulties and irritations he expected that day. And since he expected them, he usually got them. At breakfast he would read the newspaper negatively, taking a pessimistic impression of everything in the news of the world. Daily he left home for the office in a gloomy, apprehensive mood.

But one morning his long-suffering wife, herself of a positive disposition, told him to snap out of it and skip those morning doldrums. She made the curious suggestion of using upbeat affirmations to recondition thinking to a positive outlook.

HER LITTLE speech astounded him. But she said it so sweetly that, instead of getting riled, he grudgingly agreed to give it a try. Then and there he memorized a short statement which his wife suggested and went to work repeating it to himself, and that morning things began to look up for him. To his astonishment the words began working in his mind like a tonic.

"I started that day with anticipation," he says, "and everything went so well all day that I decided maybe I'd better do the same every morning." He kept it up day after day. What was that magic affirmation he used? Here it is: "This is the day which the Lord hath made; we will rejoice and be glad of it." (Psalm 118).

"You don't change mental habits overnight," he says, "but gradually my life changed for the better by shifting from apprehension to anticipation."

Sustained anticipation tends to attract good things and lots of them. How well a situation works out for you depends in part upon whether you are mentally receptive to a good outcome. Life seems to be responsive to the expectant mind, to anticipation.

The ideal time for cultivating an anticipative attitude is as the day begins. An old English proverb declares, "Of a good beginning cometh a good end." You can do wonders for yourself by starting a day with an expectant attitude and optimistic thinking. Personally I start every morning with a prayer of thanksgiving for the blessings of life and the opportunity of a new day. Then I picture the day ahead as I confidently expect it to be.

I like the plan of a Connecticut businessman. Each morning after getting to his office and taking a look at his schedule he spends a few moments in quiet meditation. This practice did so much for him that he wrote an article telling about it.

"I pray that I may be calm and orderly in my thinking, putting first things first and acting with confidence and enthusiasm. I pray for each client whom I am going to write to or see. I pray that I may understand them and that they will understand me and that we can merge our hearts and minds to the best interest of their families or their business."

"I have now followed this custom for several months and I can truly say it has greatly increased my capacity. I seem to be able to do twice as much work each day with half the nervous tension. I have greater confidence, more conviction and greater happiness."

Want to have some fun every morning? Here's how. I do it every day and get a real kick from it. Pray that you may encounter someone you can help during the day. What I write good?"

"Just great."

You should have seen his face. His whole manner brightened up. He seemed to come alive. He even wanted to know if there was anything else he could do for us. As we went out the door he waved and I waved back. This small incident gave happens may be a simple experience like this one: One day my wife needed some groceries right away and asked if I would go with her and help carry them home. When the things she purchased had been assembled at the counter, I stood watching the young clerk make out the sales slip. He seemed bored and glum and weary of it all. Then I noticed his handwriting. It was unusually beautiful script. Here was my opportunity. I said, "I've been watching you write that list."

"WHAT'S WRONG with it?" he asked. (Touchy.)

"Nothing at all," I said. "It's not that. I'm impressed by how beautifully you write."

"What's that?" He looked up at me in surprise. "Nobody ever told me that before! You think I write good?"

"Just great."

You should have seen his face. His whole manner brightened up. He seemed to come alive. He even wanted to know if there was anything else he could do for us. As we went out the door he waved and I waved back. This small incident gave

HONORED AT 75TH ANNIVERSARY

It's Mutual Admiration Between 1st Baptist and 50-Year Members

"You should have met all our pastors, we have always had the most wonderful pastors!" said Mrs. Ione Ball enthusiastically.

Mrs. Ball joined First Baptist Church back in 1908, and will be one of the specially honored 50-year members at a family dinner May 21 celebrating the church's 75th anniversary, the last 19 years at its present location, 10th and Pine.

Mrs. Ball's enthusiasm for First Baptist's pastors would undoubtedly be returned by all her pastors with equal warmth. Among her many contributions to the life of the church, she spent 33 years as supervisor of the children's Bible programs.

"My happiest moments now," she says, "are when a young man remembers me and sends me an invitation to his wedding. It's more natural for girls, but here lately there have been three of my young men send me invitations!"

Mr. and Mrs. Fred B. Matteson are also in the select group. Mr. Matteson came from Joliet, Ill. in 1908 and immediately joined the church. He has played a vital role through the years as a leading figure on the Board of Trustees, and the Building Committee, and president of the Men's Class.

"We have always had strong preachers at First Baptist," he said. "And they have all been strong advocates of what a downtown church could do in maintaining the faith."

Mrs. Matteson (Ethel) is a native of Long Beach whose mother crossed the country in a covered wagon at the age of seven, and was one of the church's charter members. Her father, Alfred Owen, was the first Baptist to be baptized in the ocean at Long Beach, and was deacon emeritus of the church.

She joined the church back in 1902.

"That dates me," she commented with a timeless feminine smile. "We lived at the corner of Sixth and Long Beach Boulevard then, where the Denny's restaurant is now."

Other events planned by the church are a civic recognition banquet on Friday, May 23, and special Sunday services May 25th.

At breakfast he would read the newspaper negatively, taking a pessimistic impression of everything in the news of the world. Daily he left home for the office in a gloomy, apprehensive mood.

But one morning his long-suffering wife, herself of a positive disposition, told him to snap out of it and skip those morning doldrums. She made the curious suggestion of using upbeat affirmations to recondition thinking to a positive outlook.

HER LITTLE speech astounded him. But she said it so sweetly that, instead of getting riled, he grudgingly agreed to give it a try. Then and there he memorized a short statement which his wife suggested and went to work repeating it to himself, and that morning things began to look up for him. To his astonishment the words began working in his mind like a tonic.

"I started that day with anticipation," he says, "and everything went so well all day that I decided maybe I'd better do the same every morning." He kept it up day after day. What was that magic affirmation he used? Here it is: "This is the day which the Lord hath made; we will rejoice and be glad of it." (Psalm 118).

"You don't change mental habits overnight," he says, "but gradually my life changed for the better by shifting from apprehension to anticipation."

Sustained anticipation tends to attract good things and lots of them. How well a situation works out for you depends in part upon whether you are mentally receptive to a good outcome. Life seems to be responsive to the expectant mind, to anticipation.

The ideal time for cultivating an anticipative attitude is as the day begins. An old English proverb declares, "Of a good be-happens may be a simple experience like this one: One day my wife needed some groceries right away and asked if I would go with her and help carry them home. When the things she purchased had been assembled at the counter, I stood watching the young clerk make out the sales slip. He seemed bored and plumb and weary of it all. Then I noticed his handwriting. It was unusually beautiful script. Here was my opportunity.

It was my opportunity. I said, "I've been watching you write that list."

"WHAT'S WRONG with it?" he asked. (Touchy.)

"Nothing at all," I said. "It's not that. I'm impressed by how beautifully you write."

"What's that?" He looked up at me in surprise. "Nobody ever told me that before! You think I write good?"

"Just great."

You should have seen his face. His whole manner brightened up. He seemed to come alive. He even wanted to know if there was anything else he could do for us. As we went out, the door was waved and I waved back. This small incident gave

HONORED AT 75th ANNIVERSARY

It's Mutual Admiration Between 1st Baptist and 50-Year Members

"You should have met all our pastors, we have always had the most wonderful pastors!" said Mrs. Ione Ball enthusiastically.

Mrs. Ball joined First Baptist Church back in 1908, and will be one of the specially honored 50-year members at a family dinner May 21 celebrating the church's 75th anniversary, the last 19 years at its present location, 10th and Pine.

Mrs. Ball's enthusiasm for First Baptist's pastors would undoubtedly be returned by all her pastors with equal warmth. Among her many contributions to the life of the church, she spent 33 years as supervisor of the children's Bible programs.

"My happiest moments now," she says, "are when a young man remembers me and sends me an invitation to his wedding. It's more natural for girls, but here lately there have been three of my young men send me invitations!"

Mr. and Mrs. Fred B. Matteson are also in the select group. Mr. Matteson came from Joliet, Ill. in 1908 and immedately joined the church. He has played a vital role through the years as a leading figure on the Board of Trustees, and the Building Committee, and president of the Men's Class.

"We have always had strong preachers at First Baptist," he said. "And they have all been strong advocates of what a downtown church could do in maintaining the faith."

Mrs. Matteson (Ethel) is a native of Long Beach whose mother crossed the country in a covered wagon at the age of seven, and was one of the church's charter members. Her father, Alfred Owen, was the first Baptist to be baptized in the ocean at Long Beach, and was deacon emeritus of the church.

She joined the church back in 1902.

"That dates me," she commented with a timeless feminine smile. "We lived at the corner of Sixth and Long Beach Boulevard then, where the Denny's restaurant is now."

Other events planned by the church are a civic recognition banquet on Friday, May 23, and special Sunday services May 25th.

Grapecott March Heads for Border

INDIO (UPI) — Some 500 persons begin an eight-day march today to the Mexico border in near 100-degree temperatures to support a boycott of California table grapes.

The 100-mile march, sponsored by the United Farm Workers Organizing Committee, starts on "International grape boycott day" at a farm labor camp in this Coachella Valley community.

JIM DRAKE, an aide to the union's leader, Cesar Chavez, said the purpose of the march was to bring unity among farm workers on both sides of the border and to encourage green card workers from the Mexical Valley to join the union "in ending this exploitation of both sides of the border."

The union had accused Coachella Valley grape growers of using green card workers (Mexican nationals) who are permitted to cross the border to work in the United States) as strikebreakers.

The first stop on the march will be at a Safeway store in Coachella, where the marchers will demonstrate. Grape growers, meanwhile, have called for a "shop-in" at the store, to support Safeway in its refusal to remove California grapes from its produce departments. The growers have asked valley residents to do their shopping at the store Saturday.

The marchers plan to stop in the Salton Sea community of Mecca tonight.

DRAKE said Chavez would not be on hand for the march's start today, but he might join it on the way or at the border.

LOS ANGELES — A rocket scientist exhibited Friday a muffler he said chemically "scrubs" oxides of nitrogen and unburned hydrocarbons — major elements of smog — from automobile exhaust.

Louis J. Fuller, Los Angeles County air pollution control officer, commented: "If this muffler works well in upcoming road tests, it certainly would spell the end of air pollution from cars."

The scientist, Milton Farber, president of Space Sciences, Inc., told a news conference he is negotiating to place the mufflers on 10 California Highway Patrol cars for a one-year test.

Farber said the 31x10x6-inch device, designed to fit in the space of mufflers currently in use, could be mass produced for about $100. "This would make the actual cost about $35," he said, "because it would eliminate the $15 muffler and the $50 worth of antismog devices on today's cars."

Farber, a thermodynamicist who does rocket research under government contract, said the muffler has two chemical-packed compartments — one for removing oxides of nitrogen and the other for burning up the hydrocarbon fuel not exploded in the engine. He declined to identify the chemicals.

In tests to date, Farber said, the muffler has completely eliminated oxides of nitrogen and reduced hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide well below the federal standards for 1971 cars.

"It could completely eliminate all pollutants if there were a need for this," he said, "but it would have to be a little larger."

He said the chemicals are in cartridges designed for quick replacement every 12,000 miles. The catalyst-type muffler operates at 700 to 1,000 degrees Fahrenheit, he said, "about 100 degrees hotter than engine exhaust."

STRAIN COULD BE RELIEVED

Earthquake Control Held Possible

PASADENA (UPI) —

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, said Friday his Senate subcommittee was stymied on its bill to make oil and shipping companies pay the costs of cleaning up their oil spills.

Muskie told a news conference the subcommittee would hold two days of hearings this month in an effort to find an answer to the toughest question — whether oil and shipping firms could buy insurance to protect them against oil spill cleanup costs.

The House already has passed a similar water pollution bill.

Muskie's bill is aimed at guarding against oil leaks from tankers and from offshore drilling rigs like the one which caused a huge oil slick this year off Santa Barbara. It would do so by imposing rules on dredgers and by serving notice that oil and shipping firms would have to repay the federal government for cleaning up any spills.

faults or cracks in the earth which has not been relieved by recent earthquakes."

He spoke at a news conference in connection with an earthquake symposium at Caltech.

Dr. Clarence Allen, Caltech professor of geophysics, told newsmen "it is reasonably in the capability of man to trigger earthquakes" and predicted there eventually would be a national program to set off small earthquakes to relieve strains which could cause major earthquakes.

He said this could be done by injecting large amounts of water into the earth's crust, by building reservoirs and by setting off underground nuclear explosions.

The weight of the underground or surface reservoirs has already been observed to cause flurries of earthquakes in faulted regions, he said, "and underground nuclear events have been shown to cause tremors along nearby faults."

"I'll bet that 100 years hence we have some elements of earthquake control," Allen said. "The earth's crust is in a much more delicate state of equilibrium than was previously thought."

He said the chances of controlling earthquakes are better than those for predicting them. "The time has come when control and prevention is a realistic research objective," Allen said.

Brune said some method of setting up an earthquake warning system may be possible in 20 years. It would be based, he said, on measuring the tilting of the ground and the rate of earth creep on either side of faults.

Earthquake Control Held Possible

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Eventual control and prevention of earthquakes was forecast Friday by two California Institute of Technology geophysicists.

One pin-pointed San Gorgonio Pass — in the San Bernardino Mountains 80 miles east of Los Angeles — as "a likely place for a potentially major earthquake" at some time in the future.

Dr. James Brune, head of Caltech's quake monitoring system, said the mountain area near Beaumont and Banning "showed a considerable buildup of strain between the opposing faces of faults or cracks in the earth which has not been relieved by recent earthquakes."

the year as Long Beach hiked its California Collegiate Athletic Assn. record to 7-6.

The Diablos got their leadoff hitter on base in four of the first six innings, but each time they couldn't come up with a run against the junior righthander, who struck out 10.

Moffitt was in serious trouble only twice, the first time in the second inning when he walked the first two batters. Paul Tippon moved to third on a fielder's choice, but Moffitt struck out Mickey Hartline and gnt Dave Cates to pop out to second baseman Seida.

It was in the sixth that Moffitt passed his sternest test.

Alex Schumacher opened the inning with a two-strike, 360-foot double off the rightfield wall. Moffitt was equal to the challenge, however, striking out the next two batters and getting the third to fly to Duncan in left-field.

The 49ers opened things up in the bottom of the sixth with an assist from two Diablos. Catcher Cates juggled Duncan's towering foul pop for 10 seconds before giving the 49er another chance by dropping the ball.

Two pitches later, Duncan singled and the Diablo rightfielder turned the hit into a triple by attempting a diving catch. Duncan scored on a long sacrifice fly to left-center by Seida.

Beech took one pitch after Seida's drive, then whacked a Lloyd Gladden offering 360-feet over the leftfield wall to conclude Long Beach's scoring.

The clubs meet again today in a 12:30 p.m. doubleheader at Cal State L.A. Freshman John Keisler (5-6) and sophomore Ben Wilhers (1-3) will start for Long Beach.

Giants Lash Cubs as 5 Regulars Out on 2 Hits

CHICAGO (UPI) — In a rain-soaked game delayed four times for a total of more than two hours, the San Francisco Giants lashed out 16 hits and battered the Chicago Cubs 11-1 Friday.

One of the delays came in a five-run Giant seventh in which rookie Bob Burda hit his first major league homer, a three-run blast off Phil Regan, fifth of six Cub pitchers.

The season's first meeting between the clubs was delayed 17 minutes before it started; 43 minutes in the first inning, 42 minutes in the sixth; and 21 minutes at the start of the seventh.

The lone Cub run off winner Bob Bolin (2-2) was a leadoff homer in the fourth by Willie Smith. Bolin yielded to a pinch hitter in the eighth after giving up nine hits and fanning six.

Bolin started in place of scheduled pitcher Juan

Marichal, one of five injured Giant regulars who were missing from the San Francisco lineup. Also sidelined were Willie Mays, Willie McCovey, Jim Ray Hart and Bobby Bonds.

Hall Breaks Two National Records; Wilson Scores

By ALLEN WOLFE

Gary Hall, 17-year-old senior from Rancho Alamitos High, Garden Grove, has been called the greatest prep swimmer in the nation.

Friday night he showed why.

Hall outdistanced a field of six class swimmers while setting two national and CIF records during the CIF Championships at Belmont Plaza Olympic Pool.

A crowd of 2,200 saw Hall, Olympic silver medalist in the 400 individual medley, reel off a sensational 1:53.0 effort in the 200 individual medley. He broke the national interscholastic record of 1:54.4 set by Mark Spitz, now a freshman at Indiana University. Hall also obliterated his own CIF standard of 1:57.3 — by a margin of 3.4 seconds!

After the first 100 yards had been completed Hall held a three-second advantage over Mark Chatfield of Flintridge, who finished a distant second at 1:59.4.

"My backstroke flip didn't work well tonight," panted Hall. "I have been pointing for this record for two months. I just swam as hard as I could."

Hall received a standing ovation when the national mark was announced, and the crowd gave him a second ovation when he was presented with the William A. Lippman Jr. Perpetual Trophy as the foremost senior swimmer in Southern California.

An hour later, Hall came back to set his second national and CIF mark in the 100 backstroke.

Charles Campbell of Arcadia pressed Hall and put the finish in doubt until the final lap. After 75 yards, Hall executed a near-flawless turn and emerged with a half-length lead over Campbell.

Hall clocked 52.5 to eclipse the national record of 53.1 set by Fred Haywood, of Santa Clara, in 1967. Hall broke his own CIF record of 54.1, set during last Saturday's prelims.

Wilson High was projected as the powerhouse in the first event of the night, the 200 medley relay.

The team of Steve Shaw, Mike Brouard, John McMullen and Jerry Barrus broke a seven-year-old CIF record by clinching a lightning 1:39.3. Glendale Hoover set the old record of 1:40.7 in 1962.

The splits were impressive.

Shaw, only sophomore in the foursome, turned in a 26.7 backstroke, but was in tough company with Hall giving Rancho Alamitos a first leg lead. Brouard retaliated with a 27.7 breaststroke to pull ahead, with McMullen (23.3 butterfly) and Barrus (21.6 freestyle) mopping up.

"This is the fastest time in the nation this year," beamed Wilson coach Bob Grunisen. "We were pointing for 1:39.4, and we hit it right on the nose."

"All during the year the boys swam tired, but this week we cut our workout to 1,200 yards a day and it paid off," said Grunisen.

"The boys were psyched up, mentally prepared."

Hall Breaks Two National Records; Wilson Scores

By ALLEN WOLFE

Gary Hall, 17-year-old senior from Rancho Alamitos High, Garden Grove, has been called the greatest prep swimmer in the nation.

Friday night he showed why.

Hall outdistanced a field of six class swimmers while setting two national and CIF records during the CIF Championships at Belmont Plaza Olympic Pool.

A crowd of 2,200 saw Hall, Olympic silver medalist in the 400 individual medley, reel off a sensational 1:53.9 effort in the 200 individual medley. He broke the national interscholastic record of 1:54.4 set by Mark Spitz, now a freshman at Indiana University. Hall also obliterated his own CIF standard of 1:57.3 by a margin of 3.4 seconds!

After the first 100 yards had been completed Hall held a three-second advantage over Mark Chatfield of Flintridge, who finished a distant second at 1:59.4.

"My backstroke flip

Hall received a standing ovation when the national mark was announced, and the crowd gave him a second ovation when he was presented with the William A. Lippman Jr. Perpetual Trophy as the foremost senior swimmer in Southern California.

An hour later, Hall came back to set his second national and CIF mark in the 100 backstroke.

Charles Campbell of Arcadia pressed Hall and put the finish in doubt until the final lap. After 75 yards, Hall executed a near-flawless turn and emerged with a half-length lead over Campbell.

Hall clocked 52.5 to eclipse the national record of 53.1 set by Fred Haywood, of Santa Clara, in 1967. Hall broke his own CIF record of 54.1, set during last Saturday's prelims.

Wilson High was projected as the powerhouse in the first event of the night, the 200 medley relay.

The team of Steve Shaw, Mike Brouard, John McMullen and Jerry Barrus broke a seven-year-old CIF record by clocking a lightning 1:39.3. Glendale Hoover set the old record of 1:40.7 in 1962.

The splits were impressive.

Shaw, only sophomore in the foursome, turned in a 26.7 backstroke, but was in tough company with Hall giving Rancho Alamitos a first leg lead. Brouard retaliated with a 27.7 breaststroke to pull ahead, with McMullen (23.3 butterfly) and Barrus (21.6 freestyle) mopping up.

"This is the fastest time in the nation this year," beamed Wilson coach Bob Gruneisen. "We were pointing for 1:39.4, and we hit it right on the nose."

"All during the year the boys swam tired, but this week we cut our workout to 1,200 yards a day and it paid off," said Gruneisen.

"The boys were psyched up, mentally prepared."

Larry O'Brien was the Lancer hit star, collecting three hits, two RBI, and scoring twice.

For Poly, it was a race of winning the battle, but not the war.

The Harris played like the league's best club the last three weeks and managed to beat Millikan three times under new coach Hugh Mendez.

Little LaVoice Thomas, though roughed up in the last inning, won his sixth game.

The Jackrabbits sent nine men to bat in a five-run third. Jerry Mantlo hit a bases-loaded triple to deep right on a 0-2 pitch.

Wilson committed five errors behind Chuck Ross, despite pulling off a triple play in the third.

With the bases loaded, Mike Rae hit a ground ball in Cass Ditzler at third. Ditzler threw out Rae at first. Ruddell was

Forced Vacation

Nets Reid First

Round Texas Lead

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Steve Reid, fresh from a week-long, self-enforced vacation because of sour putting, scrambled his way to a four-under-par 33-34-67 Friday and captured the first-round lead in the rain delayed $100,000 Texas Open.

Reid said he had no confidence at all in his game, but he missed only three greens and two fairways in taking a one-stroke lead over a pair of youngsters — Jess Sneed, nephew of Sam Snead, and South African Bobby Cole.

A logjam developed at two-under-par 69, two strokes back of the leader. In with that score were Bert Yancey, Dale Douglass, Dean Refram, Doug Sanders, Terry Wilcox, Wayne Yates and Steve Oppermann.

Reid, who had captured one tournament title since turning pro, admitted to "playing kind of scrappy."

"I just do not have any confidence in my swing. I was just trying to keep it in play and didn't take any three putts," he said.

Reid got "fired up" after saving pars on the first two holes with putts of more than four feet, and then went on to sink birdie putts of 6, 7, 10 and 2 feet on the sixth, seventh, ninth and 15th holes.

Locke's Earl Adkins won the lows in 18.7, and teammate James Tolbert won the highs in 14.1. Tolbert also got a second in the lows.

League champion Locke dominated the meet, scoring 74 points to 59 for Gardena.

MONTREAL, (UPI) — Veteran goaltender Glenn Hall of the St. Louis Blues has become the first player of the Western Division to be named to a National Hockey League official all-star team.

Results of the voting for 1968-69, taken at the conclusion of the regular schedule by the NHL's writer's assn., were announced Friday by the NHL.

Hall, an all-star for the 11th time, joins defenseman Bobby Orr of the Boston Bruins, Tim Horton of the Toronto Maple Leafs, center Phil Esposito of Boston, left winger Bobby Hull of the Chicago Black Hawks and right winger Gordie Howe of the Detroit Red Wings on the first team.

The Montreal Canadiens, who finished first in the Eastern Division in the NHL's quarterfinal play-off series.

Most of golf's top names, including Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player, Julius Boros and Bill Casper, skipped the tournament.

Records Erased by Winds

Two records were broken and another tied in the Marine League track and field finals Friday at San Pedro, but none of them will go in the record book.

A seven-mile-per-hour wind wiped out Steve Holden's record-tying 9.6 in the 100, and a 12-mph gust took the gloss off records in the high and low hurdles.

VAN SOLINGEN'S BAT KEEPS MAYFAIR IN TITLE PICTURE

The rule of thumb in the Suburban League is to pitch around Bill Van Solingen, Mayfair's High's slugging outfielder who has whacked five home runs this season.

Neff chose not to put Van Solingen on base in the eighth inning Friday, and it cost the Trojans a 4-3 loss to Mayfair and left the league title up in the air.

Neff maintained its lead with a 9-5 record, but Mayfair is 8-5 with two ties to make up, and Artesia has a 9-6 record. Mayfair and Neff meet again Wednesday, one day after the Monsoons face Glenn to play off their tie. Mayfair coach Stan Hubert must be happy he has gotten this far. With Rick Arendell on second base and two outs in the eighth inning Friday, Paul Pelz served up Van Solingen's decisive hit. A walk might have changed the outcome.

Van Solingen had poled a two-run homer in the first inning, but Neff, down 3-1 in the seventh, came back to tie on two errors and a triple by Pelz.

Artesia went 11 innings to beat Galin, 1-0, and stay in the title picture. Darrel Davis outlasted Barry Traynor, each tossing three-hitters, and the Pioneers scored in the only run on a walk, error and fielder's choice.

Glenn's Dave Morgan blanked La Mirada, 5-0, in the other game, and the Pioneers scored in the only run on a walk, error and fielder's choice.

Argos Nip Pacifica to Win Title, 1-0

14th, 3-2

Garden Grove High won the Garden Grove League baseball title Friday, scoring an unearned run in the 10th inning to beat Pacifica, 1-0.

The victory gave the Argonauts an 11-4 record and enabled them to prevent a three-way title tie as Santiago beat Bolsa, 4-1, to finish with a 10-5 mark. Pacifica lost out altogether, finishing 9-6.

The top two teams win CIF playoff berths.

A single by Lou Randall, an error, a walk and Dave Maurer's fly ball produced Garden Grove's winning run, breaking up a great pitching duel between Stan Walkins of Pacifica and John Rose of Garden Grove.

McKuen Slated on NBC Tonight

By TERRY VERNON
(For Vacationing TV Editor
George Eres)

Rod McKuen is a little like olives.

You may not like him at first — and maybe not even later.

Or perhaps after a few samples, he may grow on you.

NBC offers a half-hour sample of the singer, recording artist, concert performer, composer and runaway best-selling poet. It's a one-man show at 8:30 p.m., in which Rod performs his own work, reciting one poem and singing several of his best-known songs, many of which are McKuen poems set to McKuen music.

"Poetry," McKuen insists, "is anything that touches you, even for a moment. Someone smiling at you on the street is a self-contained poem. The written word is poetry if it illuminates life a bit."

Among his favorite "poets," Rod lists Ernest Hemingway, Thomas Wolfe and John Steinbeck, explaining:

"These people, in a paragraph, come across with a terribly meaningful thing. They're simple and direct. That's what it's all about."

In the field of popular music, he lists four singers he enjoys.

Pet Clark, Judy Collins,

Fred Astaire and Frank

Young Women Will Demand Measles Shots

By BEN ZINSER
Medical-Science Editor

Young women of childbearing age are going to demand the new vaccine against German measles even though government health officials have advised against their routine immunization.

That was the prediction Friday of Dr. Joseph W. St. Geme Jr., chief of pediatrics at Harbor General Hospital, in a talk to doctors at St. Mary's Hospital in Long Beach.

Dr. St. Geme, who also is professor of pediatrics at UCLA medical school, said blood-testing procedures will eliminate a good deal of the problem.

Tests can show if a woman has already had the ailment. If she has, she thus would have immunity and there would be no need to administer the vaccine.

THE VACCINE IS EXPECTED to be approved any day now by the government for general use. Health authorities are recommending that the vaccine be given to children between one year old and puberty.

Dr. St. Geme said that perhaps 50 per cent of young adult women have already had German measles and thus won't need the vaccine.

The problem is that German measles, also called rubella, is a mild illness in childhood and may not be recognized as such. Consequently many persons don't know if they're immune or not. The illness itself confers immunity.

Rubella's big threat is that if it is acquired by a woman in early pregnancy, it poses a direct hazard to the fetus. Consequences can be a variety of birth defects in the offspring. Possibilities include eye defects, hearing impairment, heart defects, mental retardation, bone abnormalities and blood disorders.

Also possible after rubella infection in the mother is miscarriage or stillbirth.

DR. ST. GEME SAID young women selected for rubella immunization must be carefully chosen. They must assure the physician that they will not become pregnant for some time after inoculation. The danger is that the vaccine virus poses an undetermined risk for a fetus.

He predicted that such women will be asked to sign consent forms before they are given the vaccine.

Another problem is that some susceptible women vaccinated during field trials have developed transient arthritis afterward. In adult women, arthritis is common when rubella is contracted.

Dr. St. Geme also discussed the new antiviral drugs and said it will be another decade before medical science has excellent compounds with which to combat systemic viral infections.

San Clemente Eyes New Sewage Plant

The south Orange County city of San Clemente — where President Nixon may buy a summer White House — is planning for the population growth it is certain will come.

City Engineer Phil Peter disclosed Friday the city will spend $2 million for a sewage treatment plant capable of handling four million gallons of sewage effluent daily. It will be financed by a bond issue approved last year.

A 17-acre site off Pico Road, in the industrial area southwest of the San Diego Freeway, will be the location of the new plant.

Because effluent will be treated to a high degree, reclaimed water will be used to irrigate the municipal golf course, and will be pumped to irrigate farms in the San Mateo Valley area of Camp Pendleton, which adjoins San Clemente.

The plant is so designed that it can be doubled in size when more capacity is needed, Peter said.

A call for bids will be published early next month and construction could begin late this summer, officials said.

The Hornet was also the first carrier of Task Force 71 to arrive off North Korea after North Koreans shot down a Navy reconnaissance plane.

She is the flag ship of Rear Adm. E. G. Fairfax, commander of Anti-submarine Warfare Group Five, and has traveled more than 60,000 miles in the past 7½ months.

USS Hornet Due Here Monday From Vietnam

The carrier USS Hornet will return to its home port of Long Beach at 4:30 p.m., Monday, following its third deployment off Vietnam.

The ship will off-load her air squadrons at San Diego Monday before mooring at Long Beach Naval Shipyard's Pier E, Berth 124.

The 44,000-ton antisubmarine warfare carrier and its 2,700-man crew under command of Capt. Jackson A. Stockton left Long Beach Sept. 30 for duties with the Seventh Fleet.

The Hornet was also the first carrier of Task Force 71 to arrive off North Korea after North Koreans shot down a Navy reconnaissance plane.

She is the flag ship of Rear Adm. E. G. Fairfax, commander of Anti-submarine Warfare Group Five, and has traveled more than 60,000 miles in the past 7½ months.

The ship's duties in the Gulf of Tonkin included continuous day and night all-weather air surveillance and logistic support for more than 40 other American war vessels posted there before the Nov. 1, 1968 bombing halt.

The Hornet's helicopters transferred more than 4,000 fleet passengers to and from other ships, and handled more than 700,000 pounds of mail.

The vessel also provided extensive medical and technical assistance to other units. Helicopters from the Hornet — temporarily based on attack carriers — rescued eight airmen downed in the Gulf of Tonkin.

She took part in air operations in several major antisubmarine warfare exercises with British and Australian naval forces and visited Hong Kong and Singapore, and sailed home from Yokosuka, Japan, May 1.

Laguna Art Auction Fund to Help Needy

By BOB SANDERS
Staff Writer

Laguna Beach is going to do two of its civic spectacles Sunday.

They are: selling art objects and helping townspeople in trouble.

Torrential spring rains severely damaged three homes along Laguna Canyon Road. Two of them were a total loss.

On Richard Challis, operator of the Challis Gallery, met with Mrs. Helen Keeley, former councilwoman and present member of the Orange County Grand Jury. They had an idea — and it will be in evidence Sunday.

Challis and Mrs. Keeley first tried to solicit funds for the three stricken families. Then they decided to hold an art auction and assign all the proceeds to the storm victims.

More than 100 art objects, produced in Laguna Beach by the colony's better known artists, will go on the auction block at 2 p.m. Sunday at the Art Festival grounds.

The items, which include paintings, sculpture, jewelry and carvings, will be on display from 10 a.m. until they are auctioned.

Long Beach Group Honors Teachers

Mrs. Herminie Baker, who for the past four years has taught basic education to poor Negroes in Long Beach, today holds a special award from the Long Beach Community Improvement League.

The award was presented to her during ceremonies Thursday by Richard Harris, the League's acting executive director.

"In the Central Area," Harris said, "the league is proud to have an adult remedial education project supervised and taught by Mrs. Baker."

"During the past four years Mrs. Baker has faithfully and courageously taught our black adults basic education. Some of her students have completed the General Educational Development test, passed civil service examinations, and some have gone on to college."

"Mrs. Baker can take great pride and we can also in her efforts to help eliminate the illiteracy and ignorance which has brought our community to social confrontation."

JOGGING ALONG THE OLD TRAIL

Standards Requested for Signs and Buildings

By DON BRACKENBURY
Staff Writer

Because no one can say specifically what "uniformity of design" means in reference to signs and buildings, the Planning Commission has asked its staff to come up with some guidelines and standards.

The action came at the close of nearly two hours of discussion on what factors can be considered by commissioners in carrying out their responsibilities under the ordinances governing signs and building design.

PLANNING Director Ernest Mayer Jr. told the commission Thursday that a number of cities, such as Carmel and Santa Barbara, have architectural control over such structures, but said there have been some legal questions raised about such decisions.

"Aesthetics are a reasonable basis of zoning regulations if the findings of the Planning Commission are directly related to public health, safety, morals and general welfare," Mayer said.

Deputy City Attorney Robert G. Austin told the commission that "a long list of court decisions" has held that cities cannot regulate planning matters "solely on the basis of aesthetics or appearances."

"It's hard for me to see a relationship between what a building looks like and the public health and welfare," Austin admitted.

Long Beach's problem, Austin agreed, is that the "uniformity of design" mentioned in the city ordinance is vague in meaning.

"The commission must make a finding that the building or sign is detrimental to public health, safety, welfare or morals," he said.

MAYER AGREED that the existing ordinance provisions are so "vague and difficult to define" that it is almost impossible to administer.

"It's hard for me to see a relationship between what a building looks like and the public health and welfare," Austin admitted.

Young Women Will Demand Measles Shots

By BEN ZINSER
Medical-Science Editor

Young women of childbearing age are going to demand the new vaccine against German measles even though government health officials have advised against their routine immunization.

That was the prediction Friday of Dr. Joseph W. St. Geme Jr., chief of pediatrics at Harbor General Hospital, in a talk to doctors at St. Mary's Hospital in Long Beach.

Dr. St. Geme, who also is professor of pediatrics at UCLA medical school, said blood-testing procedures will eliminate a good deal of the problem.

Tests can show if a woman has already had the ailment. If she has, she thus would have immunity and there would be no need to administer the vaccine.

THE VACCINE IS EXPECTED to be approved any day now by the government for general use. Health authorities are recommending that the vaccine be given to children between one year old and puberty.

Dr. St. Geme said that perhaps 50 per cent of young adult women have already had German measles and thus won't need the vaccine.

The problem is that German measles, also called rubella, is a mild illness in childhood and may not be recognized as such. Consequently many persons don't know if they're immune or not. The illness itself confers immunity.

Rubella's big threat is that if it is acquired by a woman in early pregnancy, it poses a direct hazard to the fetus. Consequences can be a variety of birth defects in the offspring. Possibilities include eye defects, hearing impairment, heart defects, mental retardation, bone abnormalities and blood disorders.

Also possible after rubella infection in the mother is miscarriage or stillbirth.

DR. ST. GEME SAID young women selected for rubella immunization must be carefully chosen. They must assure the physician that they will not become pregnant for some time after inoculation. The danger is that the vaccine virus poses an undetermined risk for a fetus.

He predicted that such women will be asked to sign consent forms before they are given the vaccine.

Another problem is that some susceptible women vaccinated during field trials have developed transient arthritis afterward. In adult women, arthritis is common when rubella is contracted.

Dr. St. Geme also discussed the new antiviral drugs and said it will be another decade before medical science has excellent compounds with which to combat systemic viral infections.

Escape Try Nets 1-10 Years

Gerald Granados, 22, was sentenced to from one to 10 years in prison Friday for an abortive attempt to escape from the Orange County Medical Center jail ward by using a nurse as hostage.

Santa Ana Superior Court Judge James F. Judge also sentenced Granados to up to five years in prison for possession of marijuana. The terms will be served concurrently.

Granados was arrested on the marijuana charges in January and tried to flee the medical center's jail ward Jan. 23.

He was captured after seizing nurse Jewel Griffin, and, while holding a razor blade to her neck, forcing her to unlock a door leading out of the complex.

Lawmen collared him while he tried to boost Mrs. Griffin over a chain-link fence surrounding the building.

San Clemente Eyes New Sewage Plant

The south Orange County city of San Clemente — where President Nixon may buy a summer White House — is planning for the population growth it is certain will come.

City Engineer Phil Peter disclosed Friday the city will spend $2 million for a sewage treatment plant capable of handling four million gallons of sewage effluent daily. It will be financed by a bond issue approved last year.

A 17-acre site off Pico Road, in the industrial area southwest of the San Diego Freeway, will be the location of the new plant.

Because effluent will be treated to a high degree, reclaimed water will be used to irrigate the municipal golf course, and will be pumped to irrigate farms in the San Mateo Valley area of Camp Pendleton, which adjoins San Clemente.

The plant is so designed that it can be doubled in size when more capacity is needed, Peter said.

A call for bids will be published early next month and construction could begin late this summer, officials said.

Top Blues Group Among 3 Outfits Here Tonight

By GEORGE LAINE
Staff Writer

Doug Clifford, Stuart Cook and John and Tom Fogarty are coming to Long Beach tonight.

That isn't going to mean a lot to you until you learn that the four young men travel under the name of the Creedence Clearwater Revival and that they're currently among the 19 "hottest" groups on today's musical scene.

The four will hold forth — along with the Grass Roots and the Sir Douglas Quintet — in Long Beach Arena beginning at 8 tonight. Virtually all seats have been sold, the auditorium reports.

THE GROUP climbed to its "hottest" status largely through perseverance, John Fogarty believes.

"We've been together for about 10 years," he explained, during an interview this week. "And we haven't done anything lately that's different from the things we were doing when we started."

JOHN FOGARTY

What has happened, he said, is that public tastes have changed.

"Ten years ago, people didn't want to hear the blues," Fogarty surmised. "Now, they can't get enough . . ."

The group had two big hits last year, "Susie Q" and "Put a Spell on You," with the former registering in the top 10. This year's biggest hit is their rendition of "Down on the Bayou," which had sold more than a million copies as a single. (Sales of the Fantasy album, titled "Down on the Bayou" is now over the $2 million mark.)

Despite the possibility of greater success through switching their style, the Revival stayed with the blues and their success has been based on that honesty with themselves. In fact, dishonesty in music is the single thing which most appalls and disgusts the members of the Revival.

All of the members of the group are from El Cerrito, a suburban community south of San Francisco. They grew up together, know each other intrinsically.

"We couldn't lie to each other," John explained. "Our music was — and is — what we dig musically.

"There aren't a lot of groups around that can say that. Some of the groups get so many violins going behind them it's hard to tell what their own sound is like."

John didn't mention names but the guilty groups are well known to rock fans.

"Don't get me wrong," he said, "we can dig anyone's music if it's their own.

"If it is honest, it's OK."

Camper Burgled

Burglars using a passkey entered a camper owned by Daniel Baker while it was parked near his home, 1629 Chestnut Ave., and removed fishing equipment valued at $168, police said Friday.

est after the winter flooding.

Tentative plans of the Bellflower Board of Education call for completion of the Mayfair High School gym in Lakewood, addition of three science and agriculture rooms at Somerset High School, and installation of a science and conservation room at Jefferson, Lindsrom, Ramona and Pyle Elementary schools, Shelves said.

Dr. David Shelves, the district's business manager, said the funds are divided between allocations for buildings and replacement of equipment. The camp was originally purchased for the district's outdoor education program, but has been leased to a private operator for several years.

Federal officials have approved expenditure of the funds for in-district capital projects related to conservation, recreation, science and agriculture, Shelves said. The project will be restricted to 11,676 square feet of buildings condemned at the camp in the Angeles National Forest.

Featured will be selections by the 123-piece All-District Elementary Orchestra of Bellflower Unified School District.

The district's 20th annual concert will be under the general supervision of Dr. Charlotte Stevenson, coordinator of music.
